BELFAST UNDER SIEGE IN FATAL RIOTS OF 10,000

FIRES PROVE ADDED MENACE IN DISORDER

Belfast, Northern Ireland (Wednesday), Oct. 12 (A.P.).—Belfast was a beleaguered city throughout the night after a demonstration by 10,000 jobless men and women yesterday had turned into a series of riots resulting in the death of one man, serious injuries to at least 31 other persons, including three women, and many minor casualties.

A cordon of police was drawn around the city and no one was allowed to enter except on permissible business until daybreak. The curfew law was enforced after 11 p. m., and as a result the city was quiet except for constant sniping on the police in the Falls road district.

More than 2,000 police patroled the streets on foot and in armored cars. Bus and tram services were suspended.

12 Outbreaks of Fires.

There were twelve outbreaks of fire during the evening, all of which were placed under control around midnight. Until 11 p. m. last night thousands of persons thronged the thoroughfare, but unwillingly went home at that hour as police began to round up everybody they found abroad.

Five hundred extra police arrived in the city during the night and the authorities were understood to have sought reinforcement from all the six northern counties. The infantry regiment at Holywood, near Belfast, was kept in its barracks yesterday ready to march on the city, according to the Exchange Telegraph, but no such call proved necessary.

Sniping Continues.

Utmost precautions were being taken to prevent looting.

Several members of the city corporation requested the lord mayor to take steps promptly to relieve distress and hunger among the unemployed.

The disorders during the day were concentrated in the Falls Road district. Late tonight police reported that sniping had started there, and they were replying with rifle fire. In several districts of the city street lamps have been smashed and the thoroughfares were kept lighted by armored cars equipped with searchlights.

Charlottesville Reports First Holdup in 15 Years

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The Virginia Restaurant on West Main street was robbed this morning between 5 and 6 o'clock by two Negroes who held the manager, Angelus Semoras, at point of a pistol while they looted the cash register of $10.

Kennedy to Seek Linthicum's Seat

Maryland Parole Official Is Democratic Choice for Office.

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Ambrose J. Kennedy, Maryland parole commissioner, today was selected by the Democratic State central committee as the party's candidate for the unexpired term of the late Representative J. Charles Linthicum and the new term for which Mr. Linthicum had been nominated before his death last week.

His Republican opponent is to be named at a meeting of the Republican State central committee here Saturday. Charles L. Weigand, deputy collector of internal revenue, yesterday withdrew as Republican candidate.

The seat at stake is the Fourth District, lying entirely within the City of Baltimore.

G. O. P. Leader in Ohio Raps Hoover Farm Plan

Urbana, Ohio, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Representative Charles Brand (Republican), of the Seventh Ohio District, in a statement tonight voiced opposition to the agricultural policies of President Hoover and declared the Republican party "deserves defeat and reorganization."

PLANS EMPIRE

HENRY PU-YI.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Changchun, Manchuria (Wednesday), Oct. 12 (A.P.).—Sources close to the palace of Pu-Yi, chief executive of Manchukuo, asserted today that the "boy emperor" of China had received emissaries from China proper and discussed with them the possibility of restoring at least a part of the Chinese monarchy under the Manchu dynasty.

These sources declared that Pu-Yi, the last of the Manchurian kings that ruled China for three centuries, starting with the nucleus of their native Manchuria, cherished ambitions to restore the glory of that monarchy if possible.

It was asserted that Pu-Yi and the Manchu-Chinese members of his entourage hoped that the opportunity for such expansion of Manchukuo would be provided after the Japanese military occupation of Jehol had occurred.

Jehol lies just west of Fengtien Province, Manchuria, and the discussion with emissaries from south of the Great Wall of China embraced the possibilities of provinces like Hopei, Shantung, and Ahansi, joining Manchukuo, and restoring Pu-Yi to the throne.

Japanese military authorities here appeared to regard the occupation of Jehol as inevitable, possibly this coming spring.

Harbin, Manchuria (Wednesday), Oct. 12 (U.P.).—An army of 2,500 Chinese was defeated in a battle reminiscent of World War campaigns on the western front as Manchukuo-Japanese forces today apparently began their long-threatened "campaign of extermination" against guerrillas and Chinese irregulars.

Casualties of both the Chinese and the well-ordered Japanese and Manchukuo soldiers were extremely heavy.

The battle, at Fulaerchi, raged for 40 hours before the stubborn defense of the Chinese was broken. Survivors fled in disorder along the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Field artillery and siege guns, hastily brought up from Harbin by rail, were swung into position and

Debuchi May Return Here as Japan's Envoy

Tokyo (Wednesday), Oct. 12 (A.P.).—The foreign office announced today that there was "a strong probability" that Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi would return to his post in Washington before Christmas.

Ambassador Debuchi left Washington for home on leave of absence in August, and it was rumored at the time that with the expiration of his three-year term abroad this fall he would be assigned elsewhere, possibly to China.

BAR COMMITTEE LAYS GANG LAW TO PROHIBITION

TWO YEARS' INQUIRY IS BASIS OF REPORT

Hoover Will Address Lawyers Tonight; Hughes to Place Stone Tomorrow.

Prohibition was declared the fountain head of modern gang law and present-day crime, in a bitter arraignment of the eighteenth amendment yesterday before the American Bar Association.

"Prohibition brought about a condition of times and customs and law which makes it easy for the gangster to obtain a large personal organization at a small risk," Chairman George A. Bowman, of a special "mercenary crime" committee, told the section of criminal law and criminology.

"It brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition."

The report was preliminary to the opening session of the American Bar Association convention at 10 o'clock this morning in Constitution Hall. President Hoover will address the association at 9 o'clock tonight, and tomorrow morning Chief Justice Hughes will lay the corner stone for the new United States Supreme Court Building.

Two Years of Study.

The Bowman report on mercenary crime was the outgrowth of a two-year committee study, following a discussion of gang life at the Chicago 1930 convention.

Mr. Bowman said he did not want to be understood as "holding a brief for or against the law," but simply as presenting "what we believe to be a fact."

"In the life of our cities we have had various lawless gangs over the last hundred years," he said. "However, these gangs did not flourish and prosper to any great extent until after the advent of prohibition."

Starting with violation of the eighteenth amendment, law disregard reached out and encompassed gambling, houses of ill fame, kidnaping, bank robberies and other classes of crime, the report stated.

"With the advent of prohibition it became apparent that despite the existence of the eighteenth amendment in our Constitution and the Volstead act upon our statute books, there was a general and widespread demand on the part of a large section of the American public for intoxicating liquor," it read.

"Few people, if any, considered that the violation of the prohibition law involved moral turpitude. Men

Town Terrorized By Wild Oil Well

Fires and Lights Ordered Out; Many Residents Abandon Homes.

Hobbs, N. Mex., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A wild oil well inside the city limits terrified citizens tonight. The well, No. 1, of the Skelly Oil Co., sprayed oil over the city. A spark almost inevitably would result in disaster, officials said.

They ordered fires and lights extinguished. Fire hose was stretched through a three-block section around the well.

Rossdhu Castle Is Leased For Restaurant Operation

Famous Calhoun Residence Taken Over by Maryland Corporation for 8 Years at Reported Annual Figure of $25,000; Recently Run as Club.

The most important real estate transaction in several months was consummated yesterday when Rossdhu Castle, Inc., a Maryland corporation, leased from Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, their famous residence; Rossdhu Castle, on Brookeville road, a mile and a quarter north of the District line in Maryland. The corporation leased the dwelling as a restaurant with special service for teas, dinners and dances for a period of eight years at a consideration reported around $25,000 yearly.

Milton Hollander, secretary-treasurer of the corporation, who operates the Press Cafeteria in the basement of the National Press Building and who recently opened another cafeteria at 818 Fourteenth street northwest, will also manage the Rossdhu Castle establishment. H. L. Cobb is president of the corporation. Operation under the new management will be effective immediately.

Rossdhu Castle, in the 72-acre tract of Braemar Forest, is one of the showplaces of the environs of Washington. Built by Capt. and Mrs. Calhoun five years ago, it is a quarter-sized replica of the eleventh century castle of their ancestors, the chiefs of the

Divorce Case Ended After 31-Year Wait

An order of Associate Justice A. B. Hagner, of the District Supreme Court, 31 years ago was made final in the courts yesterday when Justice Oscar R. Luhring signed a final decree of divorce for Mrs. Lois Dowell Dahis, of 807 Sixth street northwest.

Justice Hagner, now dead, wrote on the jacket of the case that the woman was entitled to an interlocutory decree of divorce 31 years ago, but no steps were ever taken to make the decree final. Yesterday Attorney Cedric Johnson applied for a final decree so that Mrs. Dahis would become eligible for a pension as the former wife of James B. Dowell. The interlocutory decree was dated November 21, 1901.

Alfred A. Buhrman, assistant clerk of the District Supreme Court, recognized on the jacket his handwriting, and he corroborated the instructions written there. Following this Justice Luhring granted a final decree of complete divorce as of the 1901 date.

INSULL TURNED FREE BY GREEK OFFICIALS

Authorities Say They Lack Legal Grounds to Keep Him Under Arrest.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, wanted in Chicago to answer indictments arising from the downfall of his utilities system, was freed by the Greek authorities today after Prime Minister Eleutherios Venizelos had made inquiries to determine whether his detention was legal.

After talking on the telephone with the premier, Minister of Interior Thirimokos gave orders that unless a written request to the contrary came from the United States Legation, the Chicagoan should be given his freedom.

Subsequently, the public prosecutor studied the case and decided there were no legal grounds for the arrest.

In his inquiries about the action that had been taken, Premier Venizelos wanted to know whether there had been a warrant for the arrest. He was informed by the minister of interior that foreigners could be taken in custody without any warrant and, if there were any suspicion, could be held for a limited time.

From police headquarters, where he had spent one day in "the best room in the house," Mr. Insull went to the Petit Palais, the leading hotel in Athens.

Application for his extradition by the American Legation now will follow normal procedure, it was said.

Apparently the first process in this procedure will be the presentation of attested documents from the United States. On the basis of these documents the case would go before the Court of Appeals in Athens, which would decide whether the offenses charged were punishable in Greek law.

M. Romanos, one of the principal lawyers of Athens, and the president of the Greek Order of Advocates, has been retained by Mr. Insull to take charge of the case.

A number of friends visited the Chicagoan before he had been released from the jail to which he was taken yesterday when Greek authorities found that his papers were not in

Carolinian Admits He Led Lynchers

Walhalla, S. C., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Luudy Harris, of Walhalla, declaring that "an honest confession is good for the soul," went with his pastor to the Oconee County Jail Sunday and confessed to Sheriff John Thomas that he was the leader of a mob that lynched Allen Green, Negro, in April, 1930, it became known here today.

Harris returned to Sheriff Thomas the officer's pistol which was snatched from his hand the night of the lynching. Harris was one of a score of persons tried and acquitted in connection with the lynching. Green had been arrested on a charge of assaulting a white woman.

As the laws of this State do not allow a man to be tried but once for the same crime when his life is in jeopardy, there are no charges to be lodged against Harris.

COOLIDGE AVERS HOOVER VICTORY VITAL TO NATION

SCORES DEMOCRATIC POSITION ON BONUS

Madison Square Garden, New York, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Speaking as a private citizen, a new Calvin Coolidge faced 20,000 people in Madison Square Garden tonight, where, with salty wit, vigorous attack and sharp analysis, he urged the reelection of President Hoover as required by "the public welfare."

The slim, tight-lipped figure outlined in the glare of light flooding the huge bowl of Madison Square Garden was that known of old. The slow measured diction, the dry detached New England voice, were the same. But in the grim humor of studied inflection, the blunt frankness of his attack and warm enthusiasm of his advocacy, Calvin Coolidge spoke without reserve, sharply in attack of Democratic policies, outspoken in admiration of his successor in office.

A two-minute demonstration, storming cheers, the honk of automobile horns carried by enthusiastic supporters, shrill whistles and shouts of "Cal" greeted him as he stepped to the rostrum.

Defense of Party Position.

Beyond his occasional whimsical deprecations of Democratic policies, the former President's speech was a studied and measured defense of the Republican position, an earnest exposition of its deeper aims.

"I reiterate my support of the President," Coolidge declared, "and reassert my faith in the Republican party, the most efficient instrument for sound popular government ever intrusted with the guidance of a great nation.

"At the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning," he said. "* * * Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try a change.

"That is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things are much worse in other parts of the world, they could be a great deal worse here than they are and would have been much worse if it had not

Coast of Mexico Struck by Storm

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning: "Advisory 9 p. m.—Tropical disturbance central short distance southeast of Carmen, Mex., with diminished intensity, moving westward."

Belize, British Honduras, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Several banana and cane plantations were destroyed in the vicinity of Orangewalk, a town on the Belize River northwest of Belize, by the tropical storm that passed over yesterday and today. Aside from high winds and tides and some damage to crops, British Honduras apparently came through the storm in good shape.

The government sent a motor vessel to Corozal, a northern town, today, but tonight word came that there was no damage in that vicinity.

Mexico City, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Vera Cruz said strong winds began to lash the port there last night.

The inhabitants of San Ramon fled at midnight, carrying extra clothing and driving their chickens, pigs, goats and cattle ahead of them in the darkness and beating rain. The town was threatened by the rising waters of the Amarillo River.

Band Binds and Gags 4, Fleeing With $8,000

Mullica Hill, N. J., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Four men today held up the Farmers National Bank of Mullica Hill, bound and gagged two employes and two depositors, and fled with between $8,000 and $10,000.

They rifled the cash drawers and the safe, and fled in a brown sedan driven by a fifth man.

Borah Offers 4-Point Program on Recovery

Lists Currency Expansion and Cuts in Public and Private Debts.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH.

Burley, Idaho, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, in an address here tonight advocated a four-point program for economic recovery—adjustment of World War problems, expansion of the currency, elimination of extravagance in government, and adjustment of private debts to conform to the change in money values.

Addressing a meeting arranged by a local service club, the chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations suggested expansion of the currency enough "to do business and afford the people a medium of exchange."

Senator Borah served notice that he would present his views without regard to party platforms or the presidential campaign in which thus far he has withheld his support from President Hoover.

Discussing the major party platforms, he commended both President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for what he termed their disregard of important parts of Republican and Democratic platforms.

"After paying lip service to these sterile declarations early in the campaign," he said, "they proceeded to put them aside. * * * It is the most encouraging event in the campaign."

"If I should canvass this audience tonight individually," the senator said, "I venture to believe that 99 per cent would be found thinking primarily, not about party politics, but

COURT INVALIDATES REDISTRICTING ACT

Richmond, Va., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Congressional district lines in Virginia were swept away today by the State Supreme Court of Appeals in a decision holding the Old Dominion's 1932 redistricting act unconstitutional.

As a result the entire Virginia membership in the United States House of Representatives will be elected at large next month for the first time in 144 years.

The decision was handed down by the court in special session with a writ of mandamus compelling the secretary of the Commonwealth to certify to electoral boards as candidates the names of Dr. William Mosely Brown, of Virginia Beach; Charles C. Berkeley, of Newport News; R. Lindsay Gordon, of Louisa, and others who have qualified to make the race.

The appellate court's action came on petition of Dr. Brown and Mr. Berkeley, who were candidates for governor and attorney general, respectively, on the coalition ticket of anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans in 1929, after Peter Saunders, secretary of the Commonwealth, had declined to accept their notices of candidacy at large on the ground that the State law did not permit them to run in this fashion.

Brown and Berkeley contended that the redistricting act did not meet constitutional requirements for districts compact, contigous and equal in population. The court said that "inequality is obvious, indisputable and

Von Gronau Rescue Ship At Rangoon, Burma

Manila, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—With his disabled globe encircling plane in tow of the British steamer Karagola, Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions arrived in Rangoon, Burma, today, radio dispatches from the rescue ship said.

On the last leg of their leisurely round-the-world jaunt, the German fliers were forced down yesterday on the Indian Ocean 200 miles south of Rangoon, by a broken water pump. They were picked up in a rough sea by the Karagola.

LONG BURKE OUSTER DELAY IS SEEN LIKELY

Commissioners Put Off Study of Case Until Friday; Peace Move Begun.

Action on the move of Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford to oust Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke was deferred until Friday by the District Commissioners at a meeting yesterday.

There were strong indications that the final settlement of the attempt of Glassford to oust the veteran policeman would not be made for several weeks. In announcing the postponement the Commissioners did not indicate that any decision might be made at the Friday meeting.

Originally, it was planned by the Commissioners to consider the recommendations at 10 o'clock yesterday; but they were engrossed in other work, and deferred their meeting until the afternoon, when they decided to defer action.

One of the reasons for the postponement is the fact that Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer has been away for several weeks and wishes to familiarize himself with the police situation.

Inasmuch as Inspector Burke has not yet seen the allegations of his "noncooperation" and "temperamental incompatibility," it is unlikely that any judgment of the dispute will be made Friday. It took Gen. Glassford more than a day to prepare the allegations, and it may take Inspector Burke longer to gather rebuttal evidence.

There appeared to be an attempt yesterday on the part of mutual friends of Glassford and Burke to adjust amicably the clash between them. It is understood that Inspector Burke will not yield and is content to rest his case with the Commissioners.

Gen. Glassford yesterday continued

Fowler, Police Ballistics Expert, Goes to Hagerstown to Investigate Story Man There Has Knowledge of Killer's Identity.

The investigation of the Mary Baker murder case was reopened by police yesterday when a slender lead took Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the Police Department, to Hagerstown, Md., to inquire into a report that a man in that vicinity had knowledge of the killer's identity.

The person who was supposed to have this knowledge, according to Lieut. Fowler, said he has a brother in Washington who conducts a rooming house and one of the roomers confessed the crime to him.

Today Lieut. Fowler will interrogate the rooming house proprietor to learn the identity of the reputed slayer. The story was relayed from the brother of the rooming house keeper to a friend, to Deputy Sheriff Richard Renner, to Chief of Police Cassidy, of Hagerstown, to the Washington Detective Bureau.

The Mary Baker murder took place on Constitution avenue, near Seventeenth street on April 11, 1930. The Government clerk's body was found the following morning in a culvert on Military road, near Arlington Cemetery. Three men were charged with the murder. One was tried and acquitted. The murderer has never been found.

2 BLACK SHIRT SUSPECTS ARE SEIZED IN CITY

Garb and Stature Said to Fit Descriptions of Terrorizers.

ST. MARYS' SHERIFF ADMITS STANDSTILL

In the wake of an admission by Sheriff Richard T. Hammett, of Leonardtown, Md., that he was at a standstill in solving a series of brutal attacks and robberies of citizens traveling the highways in St. Marys County, police here last night announced the arrest of two men, who, they declare, are being held for Maryland authorities.

Sergt. J. E. Fondahl, attached to the Traffic Bureau, sighted an automobile traveling near First street and Maryland avenue southwest, late yesterday. He recognized the license plates as ones reported stolen.

As Sergt. Fondahl overtook the machine, it suddenly came to a stop and one its three occupants leaped out and fled.

All Have Black Shirts.

The other two were arrested and taken to the First Precinct station. They said they were John H. Harris, 18 years old, of Alexandria, Va., and Frank D. Rominger, 22 years old, who said he lived at 7 Ninth street northwest. Police say there is no such address.

Riding the State highways bent on plunder and assault, a trio of men, known as the "Black Shirt" gang, have spread a reign of terror throughout one of Maryland's oldest and most picturesque counties.

In each of eight holdups in St. Marys County during the last week, a short and tall man have figured in the actual looting. A third man remained at the wheel of their machine. All three wore black shirts.

Gun Declared Found.

Sergt. Fondahl said one of the men he arrested wore a black shirt, while the other wore one of a similar hue. The man who fled, he declared, also had on a black shirt.

Police authorities at Leonardtown were notified of the arrests and are expected here shortly to confer with local police. A .38-caliber revolver was found in the car, police said.

Citizens of Leonardtown, county seat of St. Marys County, were aroused to speculation when Sheriff Hammett is alleged to have disappeared at the beginning of what has now developed into a reign of terror.

After residents of nearby rural areas fell victims to the depredations of the masked and armed trio traveling the highways in stolen automobiles, lack of activity by the sheriff's office brought forth a wave of protest.

However, a flat denial was made yesterday by Sheriff Hammett, who said he had not been outside of town, except on one occasion when he went to the lower end of the county to investigate a phase of the robberies called to his attention.

An automobile stolen early Monday from George Maloy, of Mechanicsville, and believed taken for use of the "Black Shirts," was found abandoned yesterday a short distance from Maloy's home.

Corpl. W. V. Hunter, of the State police, yesterday went to Baltimore in an effort to obtain photos and fingerprints of two suspects. He does not expect to return until today.

FIVE-CENT FARE PARLEY BRINGS SLIGHT RESULT

TRACTION OPPOSITION TO ZONES APPARENT

A rather feeble conference, characterized by half-hearted and vague promises of "further study" on the part of both the Public Utilities Commission and the street railways and the Washington Rapid Transit Co., was held yesterday afternoon to consider the proposal of People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech that a two-zone fare, with a 5-cent rate for downtown Washington, be tried as an experiment in boosting the constantly diminishing patronage and revenues of the local traction lines.

Following a discussion that lasted for more than an hour and a half, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick emerged with a typewritten statement explaining that the transportation companies "are willing to adopt any system that would not impose additional expenditures upon them," but that "they could foresee no beneficial results" in the adoption of a zone fare system.

Despite the apparent lack of interest on the part of either the railways or the commission, Mr. Keech intends to exert effort to have his plan or some similar scheme put into effect. Encouraged by reports from other cities that have tried the zone system, he is gathering further data to convince the local carriers that zone fares might at least stop the decline in their revenues.

Will Not Fight Order.

While the railway and bus officials stated that they would not voluntarily inaugurate a zone system, they intimated that they might not fight An order of the commission instructing them to experiment with lower fares, particularly in off-peak periods.

That the street railways are far more interested in putting through merger legislation in accordance with their wishes before any experiments in rates are attempted is evident. In fact, the merger controversy, in which Mr. Keech has persistently fought certain proposals linked by the railways with the consolidation, arose again yesterday at the conference.

Hanna and Ham Did Favor.

Oddly enough, both John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., and William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., have perviously gone on record as favoring zone fare experiments, in theory, at least.

As far back as 1919 Mr. Ham testified at a commission hearing that he felt that some phase of zone transportation would solve the local problem, and Mr. Hanna recently voted in favor of experiments in zone fares for short hauls and in off-peak periods in a referendum conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Those present at the conference besides the commission, Mr. Keech, Mr. Ham, Mr. Hanna, and William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, included E. D. Merrill, president of the Washington Rapid Transit Co.; H. E. Heberle, assistant to Mr. Hanna, and A. G. Neal, vice president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

Mr. Ham's appearance at the conference came as a surprise in view of his letter to the commission last week criticizing the Keech proposal as "inopportune."

Retrial of Senator Davis Is Set for November 28

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—By agreement of counsel, the retrial of United States Senator James J. Davis on charges of violating Federal lottery laws was set yesterday for November 28.

Although the Pennsylvania senator obtained a severance in the first trial which was declared a mistrial after a juror called upon a defense lawyer, three other men indicted with Davis are to be tried also when the case comes up November 28. They are Raymond Walsh, Bernard C. McGuire and Theodore G. Miller.

The defense made no plea yesterday for a continuance of the severance. The court was told that attorneys had agreed on November 28, because of other obligations of Senator Davis until then.

To the north, another Japanese detachment repulsed 300 guerrillas who attacked Hailun, railhead city of the network of rail lines which center at Harbin. One-third of the attackers died in the battle, while the Japanese lost seven.

South of Hailingfu, an army of 500 members of the Longswords bandit organization was encountered and scattered, Japanese authorities announced. Forty-six of the bandits were killed.

Fighting over a wide area started soon after reports that Japan had issued an ultimatum that unless enemies of the Manchu "state" surrendered, they would be exterminated.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Following is the full text of the address delivered tonight at a Republican rally, at Madison Square Garden, by former President Calvin Coolidge:

My fellow countrymen: This meeting was arranged by a body of public-spirited New York people and the national Republican committee for the purpose of helping to reelect as President of the United Sates Herbert Hoover. I have accepted an invitation to address you in order that I might express my opinion on some of the issues of the campaign, reiterate my support of the President and reassert my faith in the Republican party, the most efficient instrument for sound, popular Government ever entrusted with the guidance of a great Nation.

We ought to bring to all our tasks a spirit of good cheer, but a national election which is to determine the destinies of more than one hundred and twenty million people for the next four years can not be considered as anything less than a serious undertaking to be seriously approached and seriously discharged. After all, contentment that is worth anything comes from duty well done, from meeting the obligations of the present as they occur.

Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try a change. That is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things are much worse in other parts of the world, they could be a great deal worse here than they are and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage and the leadership of President Hoover.

Before we decide that we want to have a change we ought to determine what the chances are of securing any improvement. We shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast to that which experience has proven to be sound and just and true.

Candidate Comparison Called Electorate's Duty.

Casting a ballot to determine who shall be President of the United States ought to take on a judicial function. The ability, experience and character of the candidate, the policies with which he has identified himself in the past and those which he proposes for the future, the standing of his associates and advisors, and the results which have generally been secured by the administration of his party, ought all to be carefully considered. No other attitude in approaching an election in worthy of a free people.

We are told that business is not good, that the fault must lie with the administration and therefore the proper remedy is to vote against the President. No Government has ever yet been devised that could make the people properous all the time. But a bad Government will constantly keep the people in distress. Our National Government has adopted one measure after another to support and encourage business and agriculture The present economic distress is world-wide. Our own fundamental conditions were so sound that we have been able to make the sacrifices and relieve the distress better than could be done in other countries. If there was anything which a government could do to prevent the decline in business the world has experienced, it must be that some government somewhere would have been wise enough to apply a remedy. If no such remedy anywhere has been found the inference is practically certain that the present economic condition was brought about by forces no government could foresee and prevent.

One of the subjects which is being discussed in this campaign which it is very easy to misrepresent and misunderstand is the tariff. Because of constantly changing conditions, if for no other reason, no one was ever able to devise a perfectly adjusted tariff bill. No one can devise one now and no Congress, constituted as ours is, will ever pass one. Some schedules may be too high and some too low, but protection gives the general result of an advantage to our own products in our own market.

Competitive Tariff Meaning Not Defined.

We are told now that we ought to have a competitive tariff. Those words are not new but their meaning is not very definite. Judging from the prices of almost all commodities now selling in our markets for less than the cost of production, our producers are not suffering from any lack of competition. Is it proposed to put our agriculture in competition with that of Canada, Australia and the Argentine? Is it proposed to put our industry in competition with that of Europe? Is it proposed to put our wage earners in competition with those of India, China and Japan?

But we are told again that by reducing our tariff we can increase our own foreign commerce. Every foreign nation wants our tariff reduced. No foreign nation wants to increase our commerce. I know that foreign nations do not buy in our markets unless they are compelled to do so even when price and quality are advantageous. I know also that our tariff and trade regulations in general are much more favorable to the rest of the world than their tariffs and regulations are to us. About two-thirds of our enormous imports and all our exports are free of duty.

When I was in Washington I had a man who was very familiar with European commerce through a long official study of it while he was abroad, not a member of my party, but a believer in a low tariff, make an investigation of our rates. He went through the schedules carefully and I believe conscientiously on at least two different occasions, and only could report that while there were many which did not give enough protection to balance the difference between the cost of production abroad and at home, outside of possibly some schedules that affected agriculture, in which costs were necessarily vague and indefinite, he could find nothing that he could say was too high. I did not feel that our agriculture was in a condition further to be jeopardized by foreign competition.

If that was the case then, what is it probably that a candid investigation would show now when on account of a depreciated currency in almost every country abroad the ordinary advantage which we gain from the tariff is practically eliminated?

Reciprocal Trade Pacts Would Be Surrendered.

An independent nation ought to keep within its own control the authority to determine its own revenues and regulate its own commerce Reciprocal trade agreements on any extended scale would involve our surrender of our independence on these two vital points. These practical objections were stated by President Cleveland in his first annual message to the Congress nearly 50 years ago. He was a wise statesman, and so sound on most economic questions that his party deserted him and refused him recognition for nearly a quarter of a century. After declaring that he had withdrawn certain treaties from the Senate because they surrendered large revenues and raised embarrassing questions under the favored-nation clause of treaties, he said:

"As a further objection, it is evident that tariff regulation by treaty diminishes that independent control over its own revenues which is essential for the safety and welfare of any government. Emergency calling for an increase of taxation may at any time arise, and no engagement with a foreign power should exist to hamper the action of the government."

There has never been any adequate answer to the principle which that President declared. Reciprocity on a wide scale is not practical. More than that, any attempt to apply it is certain to produce intense domestic jealousy and dissension. In order to get one duty lowered abroad we should have to lower another duty at home. The domestic producers who suffered from a lowering of our duties would have a good deal of cause to feel that they had been sacrificed to secure an advantage to some other foreign and domestic producers.

Democrats in Congress Deserted Own Program.

It is very easy to criticize after the event. Constructive leadership is not so easy. I have no taste for criticizing. I much prefer to present the constructive and statesmanlike program of my party. But when it is constantly charged that President Hoover lacks leadership I hope I may be pardoned for a slight reference to what appears to be offered in its place. As early as November, 1928, the Democratic leader publicly urged the presentation of a constructive program by his party. In the campaign of 1930 another authoritative promise of a constructive program was issued. The Democratic leader again warned his party in November, 1931, to present a constructive program, yet when that party elected a Speaker of the House and assumed control of that body no program had yet been presented.

The President in his message pointed out the necessity of increasing revenues and cutting down expenses. The acting chairman of the Democratic ways and means committee reported a new tax bill which he said was nonpartisan and had the unanimous support of the fifteen Democrats and ten Republicans of the committee. What then happened is well-known history. The Democratic members of the House deserted their leaders, destroyed the bill, and of their 220 only 40 supported it on the final vote.

In their efforts for economy, which the President had already recommended, a special committee was appointed which finally reported a bill reducing expenditures by about $200,000,000 annually. When the Democratic House finally passed it they had again deserted their leaders and rejected all the proposed savings, but about $40,000,000. No constructive program for the revival of industry and commercial and financial relief was presented by the Democratic party in the last session of Congress.

But that is only a part of the record. Meantime, President Hoover had proposed the formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, strengthening of the Federal Land Bank system, the amendment of the Federal Reserve laws to provide more adequate credit and safeguard the gold standard, the creation of the Home Loan Discount Banks and all the other legislation passed by the last Congress for the general relief of the economic situation. Many times he had the assistance and support of individual Democrats, which he has publicly acknowledged. With this record, where does the country think it can most hopefully turn for leadership?

Support of Sound Money Great G. O. P. Service.

One of the greatest services which the Republican party has rendered has been the support of sound money. During the war President Lincoln was obliged to issue greenbacks. The uncertainty as to the value of our currency which this created was one of the causes of the panic of the early seventies. Finally the Republican party passed a law over Democratic opposition declaring that some years in advance the greenbacks would be paid in gold, but the value of our currency and the power of the Government to redeem this pledge remained in doubt and caused years of business stagnation. When at last the Secretary of the Treasury, John Sherman, collected a large supply of gold in the Treasury and redeemed all the greenbacks that were presented the uncertainty ended and a business revival began. The credit of the Nation was established.

The next assault on our currency system was not made with paper, but with silver. That situation brought on the panic of the early nineties. When it was settled, by the election of President McKinley, that the national credit would be maintained, another era of pronounced prosperity followed.

We have recently gone through another period when the credit of the Nation has been at stake. Our power to continue the gold standard was doubted and foreign creditors withdrew their deposits in gold. At the same time under Democratic leadership it was proposed to issue $2,300,000,000 in greenbacks to pay the veterans' bonus and other measures were proposed which would have brought bankruptcy to the National Treasury, destroyed the market for Government bonds and forced the abandonment of the gold standard. Under the leadership of President Hoover this calamity was averted. The passage of these measures was finally avoided and the loss of our gold was offset by emergency legislation. In June the financial integrity of our Government appeared to be permanently established. Congress finally adjourned and our gold began to come back. The decline in trade ceased and confidence began to return until at the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning.

Prosperity Followed Defeat of Nostrums.

The defeat of the Democratic greenback craze and the free silver issue were both followed by periods of prosperity under Republican administrations. The assurance that the pending Democratic raids on the Treasury would be defeated by a Republican victory in November would no doubt have the same effect in reviving all kinds of business. An early and timely word from the Democratic candidate for President that he would reject the proposal to increase the national debt by $2,300,000,000 to pay a bonus would have been a great encouragement to business, reduced unemployment, and guaranteed the integrity of the national credit. While he remained silent economic recovery was measurably impeded.

One subject constantly recurs in our national political campaigns which it is difficult to discuss without apology. But it is put forward with so much boldness that it can not be entirely ignored. The charge is made that the Republican party and its candidates do not show any solicitude for the general welfare of the common run of people, but are interested only in promoting the interests of a few favored individuals and corporations of large possessions. The charge is made against the party of Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover. Lincoln and Roosevelt are both dead. No one has any personal authority to speak in their name, but the humanitarian spirit which they exemplified in their life works, based on sound and solid economic principles, remains as a sacred trust to the Republican party which it has never failed to strive to administer. If there was any subject that was anathema to both these men it was the demagogue and the purveyor of half-truths and unsound theories.

In the course of our economic progress we have become a great organized, industrial democracy. It has been the theory of the Republican party that the welfare of the people could best be promoted by strengthening and enlarging that system. We have sought to create a condition under which the ordinary man would have the best possible opportunity to find a market for whatever he had to sell, whether of production or labor. We have tens of millions of wage earners in this country. The Republican party has never believed that they could be furnished with suitable permanent employment unless some one could derive a reasonable profit from employing them.

Interests of Employer And Worker Interlocked.

We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer in order that he might pay better wages to his employes, enlarge the consumptive capacity of the people and increase the market for the farm and factory. We have sought to increase the returns of agriculture in order that it might better supply our people with food and enlarge the market for our industrial output. All this is a question of method, of the adoption of a means to an end. Always the end has been to improve the well-being of the ordinary run of people. If any candid examination is made of the progress we have accomplished under this system in the last two generations I do not think any one can seriously contend that it has not been a success. The scale of wages has constantly increased, the standard of living has constantly risen. We have had temporary reactions when prices have fallen and readjustments have been necessary. We are passing through such a period at the present time, but we have always emerged to find ourselves able to acquire new strength. But the principle is the same in good times and in bad times. The Republican party believes in encouraging business in order that the benefits from such business may minister to the welfare of the ordinary run of people.

All of our wage earners, by giving the most casual thought, can not fail to recognize the soundness of these principles. It is inevitable when a concern can make a profit by operating that it will be in the market for labor and materials, but when it can only make a loss it will discharge labor. This is what happens inevitably during an era of falling prices such as we have had from the summer of 1929 to the late spring of 1932.

Now it is difficult to conceive of any important business which does not involve the question of credit. When credit begins to be impaired business becomes paralyzed, wages decline and employment decreases; the bank refuses to make loans because it fears they will not be repaid; the depositors withdraw their money because they feel it is not safe; producers refuse to sell on time because they are afraid they can not collect. If this process continued far enough universal bankruptcy would prevail. The people of property suffer great losses, but they are usually able to take care of themselves while many wage earners, small home owners and farmers are unable to pay their interest and taxes or provide themselves and their families with food, clothing and shelter. These are the people that every one recognizes need the help of the strong arm of the Government.

Restoration of Credit Direct Help to Masses.

The first thought for relief would probably be a dole and a loan, but a little consideration would show that increasing their debts and destroying their independence would scarcely be considered a real service to people in distress. Such a remedy merely treats the symptoms without removing the causes of the disease. The answer comes back according to the words of Holy Writ that they who drink of that well will thirst again. If the National Government is to help the people to any permanent relief it must be through some system of giving them permanent employment so that they can meet their obligations, reduce their debts and pay their own living expenses.

Given the problem, then, of restoring to normal well-being a great mass of people who find themselves unemployed the fundamental remedy is not some form of pauperism, but a return to self-respecting, self-supporting and independent existence. Since the main causes of our difficulties lay in a failure of credit the first object should be to restore credit. That is the policy which President Hoover has constantly advocated. He has no wish to assist a bank because it is a bank, a railroad, an insurance company, a building and loan association, an agricultural cooperative association, or any other corporation for their own sakes. He has been seeking to preserve and restore the independent economic condition of the great mass of the people. Their suffering was brought about to a large degree through the failure of the credit of these large and small concerns. If that credit can be renewed, if confidence can be restored the people can go back to work and their suffering will cease.

It was mainly for this purpose of relieving a great mass of people who were unable to support themselves that President Hoover persuaded the bankers to create a revolving fund of $500,000,000, and secured from the Congress the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with resources of more than $3,500,000,000, which has already benefited indirectly more than 30,000,000 people. The whole policy has been based on the theory the reestablishing an opportunity for employment by strengthening the resources of the employer. A banker can now lend money to a manufacturer to carry on his production. If the depositor wants his money the banker does not need to call good loans and foreclose sound mortgages. The same principle applies to the other concerns. The power of the resources of the United States Government has been marshaled to support the credit of the key concerns of our economic structure, always for the purpose of serving the ordinary run of people.

Hoover Is Sympathetic Because of Own Struggle.

All this seems perfectly plain and obvious and so elementary that no one competent to hold national office could fail to comprehend.

Working for the general run of people is exactly what we should expect from President Hoover because he knows them by being one of them and having served with them and for them all his life. He was not born to the enjoyment of generations of inherited wealth so that he could be educated by private tutors and sent through expensive schools and universities. He never was carried into political office by the way of family influence. He has always had to depend on his own name and reputation.

Herbert Hoover was the son of a country blacksmith in Iowa. He was left an orphan at the age of 10, lived on a farm doing chores until he was 14, earned his own living as an office boy until he was 17, and worked his way through college until he was 21. He was then an engineer for twenty years, living every day among working people and everywhere beloved by them. During the war he organized and administered the greatest system of relief that was ever brought into existence. He forced the nations to preserve the right to live of ten millions of people in Belgium and northern France. After the armistice he saved 120,000,000 people in central Europe from starvation. During the Mississippi flood he directed the rescue work which saved hundreds of thousands of lives and fed and clothed millions of people. For the past three winters he has mobilized the charity of the Nation for the support of millions of distressed. Two years ago he organized the relief work which saved 2,000,000 people in the drought-stricken area. He has procured an appropriation of $300,000,000 and 85,000,000 bushels of wheat from the national Government to take care of destitute people during the coming winter. In the past three years he has secured an appropriation of over $2,000,000,000 from Congress to give employment to the common people on public works. Last spring he started a further program of $1,500,000,000 for employment through the reconstruction system.

If initiating proposals and securing their adoption constitutes leadership President Hoover is a leader. If saving the country from one impending disaster after another provides any basis for gratitude President Hoover is entitled to gratitude. I present my opinion of him to my fellow countrymen for such consideration as they may believe it merits. The more this campaign has progressed the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that he should be reelected.

I can not close without commending to the people of New York, your candidate for the Senate, Mr. Medalie, and the State ticket headed by Col. Donovan and Mr. Davison. They have records of service in civil and military life that have marked them for distinction. While they are in office your State will be certain to have an administration of pronounced economy and efficiency which ought to characterize the conduct of your public business.

He had discussed the tariff question, had urged "sound money" and criticized the Democratic stand on the soldier bonus in the early portions of his speech. But his voice sharpened and his chin was thrown out when, with challenging voice, he answered criticism that the Republican party is "interested only in promoting the interests of a few favored individuals and corporations of large possessions."

Emphasizing that "it has been the theory of the Republican party that the welfare of the people could best be promoted by strengthening and enlarging" the national system of organized industrial democracy, Coolidge declared that "all this is a question of method"—that "the Republican party believes in encouraging business in order that the benefits from such business may minister to the welfare of the common run of people."

Coolidge did not mention Gov. Roosevelt by name during his address, the end of which was greeted by a tribute of rising applause.

MUZZLING CHARGE DENIED BY GARNER

Confers With Roosevelt and Predicts Wet Action at Short Session.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—For the third time since they came together at the head of the Democratic ticket, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner met tonight to talk over campaign plans.

At the executive mansion of the New York Governor, the two talked over, at the dinner table, the course the Democratic presidential candidate and his running mate for the Vice Presidency will follow from now until November 8.

Twice before, at Hyde Park early in the campaign, and at Topeka, Kan., at the beginning of the recent Western trip, the two have met and discussed how best they can share the tasks before them.

Immediately ahead of the presidential nominee is a speech on the extent to which he believes the Federal Government should share in local relief activities. Behind that comes a trip into the South and the Middle West, the itinerary for which was expected to be completed tonight.

Newspapermen who met Garner in the big reception room of the governor's mansion tonight asked him about Republican charges that he was being "muzzled."

"Well, I don't appear to be muzzled now, do I?" he asked.

"But how about your speaking activities in the campaign? Isn't it customary for the vice presidential candidates usually to make as many or more speeches than the presidential candidate?" another inquired.

"And most of them have been beaten, too," he retorted.

The Speaker said he had just come up to talk over plans with Mr. Roosevelt.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Expressing the "possibility" that beer would be legalized before March 4, Speaker Garner visited New York Democratic headquarters today en route to Albany for conferences with Gov. Roosevelt. He said his "guess is that there will be some legislation for modification of the Volstead act when Congress meets for the short session in December."

Action on the recommendation for the demotion of Inspector O. T. Davis to a captaincy was also deferred. It had been planned by Gen. Glassford to demote Davis to provide a vacancy in the inspectors' rank for Inspector Burke, who is an assistant superintendent of police. Gen. Glassford plans to make Capt. Edward J. Kelly the head of the detective bureau, if Inspector Burke is demoted.

Though the Board of Trade took no formal action in the Burke-Glassford dispute, it became known yesterday that two of the public order committee had resolutions in their pockets demanding the resignation of Gen. Glassford. The reason they were withheld, it was learned, is that the Board of Trade usually does not take sides in such controversies. Another reason was that the men did not wish to publicly humiliate Gen. Glassford.

Dalgleish on Traffic Council.

R. H. Dalgleish, chief engineer of the Capital Traction Co., was appointed a member of the Traffic Advisory Council yesterday by the District Commissioners to succeed John H. Hanna, president of the railway. Mr. Hanna resigned because of other duties.

DAVIS CONVERSATION IN LONDON FRUITFUL

Talks With MacDonald and Admiralty Head Bring Naval Accord Near.

London, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Increasing good will for the solution of Anglo-American naval problems was revealed today, it was learned from an authoritative American source, at conferences participated in by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, and Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference.

Mr. Davis talked with Mr. MacDonald for an hour and a half this morning at No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's residence, and saw Sir Bolton this afternoon.

The discussion ranged over the whole field of Anglo-American naval affairs, although the conferees did not get down to technical questions. Both parties were reported much satisfied with the course of the conversations.

Mr. Davis also conferred with Sir Walter Layton, eminent British economist, on the prospects for the impending world economic conference.

At no time, an authoritative source said, did the American representative discuss either war debts or tariffs.

The interdependence of the economic conference and the disarmament issue was evident throughout the day's conversations. Apparently it was agreed that the greatest step toward success of the economic conference would be the solution of the European armaments problem.

Herriot Off to London Today for 'Information'

Paris, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot, who goes to London tomorrow to discuss the German arms question and disarmament generally with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, said after a cabinet session today that his trip was "not one of decision but of information."

While in London he is expected to confer with Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference, who is in the British capital talking over arms problems with government officials. It is believed that M. Herriot will take up the new French disarmament plan with the American representative.

EIGHT NAVAL FLIERS RESCUED FROM SEA

Entire Squadron of Six Planes Lost in Fog Are Accounted For.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—All twelve aviators of the Navy squadron of six planes lost in a thick fog yesterday during maneuvers off San Clemente Island had been located late today, eight of the fliers being rescued from the sea. Two of the six planes sank in the ocean.

It was the first time in the history of West Coast naval aviation that an entire squadron had been lost off the giant airplane carriers Lexington, Saratoga and Langley.

Two of the planes, one piloted by Lieut. C. E. Fox, with Sergt. S. J. Salcede as passenger, and the other piloted by Lieut. W. O. Brice, squadron commander, with Gunnery Sergt. L. J. Norris as passenger, made safe landings at Pyramid Cove, on San Clemente Island, 100 miles northwest of here, before their fuel was exhausted. The Coast Guard was requested to bring them ashore.

The others made forced landings at sea as their fuel ran out, some of them near the scene of the maneuvers and the others scattered along a line toward the North Island Naval Air Station, which the pilots hoped to reach.

Takoma Park Protests Street Commercializing

The Takoma Park Citizens Association, meeting last night in the Takoma Park Public Library, voiced protest at commercializing the vicinity of Third and Peabody streets northwest.

The section was intended for a residential district, it was pointed out, and to make it commercial would mar the beauty of the Eastern Star and Masonic Homes, located nearby.

Columbus Day Message Is Issued by President

The importance of Columbus Day, celebrated today, was stressed by President Hoover in a statement issued last night. It read:

"The annual celebration of Columbus Day serves not only to commemorate the glorious achievement of the great discoverer but also to remind the millions of his compatriots who have followed him to these shores of the blessings they have found in this land of hope and opportunity. They, on their part, have enriched our national life in terms of art, letters and many of the most useful constructive occupations. I send them my cordial greetings."

Patriotic and religious organizations will take part in ceremonies throughout the country. Parochial schools here will be closed.

Atlas Building Sold At Public Auction

Structure at Ninth and F Brings $150,000; Only One Bid Offered.

The Atlas, six-story brick and steel office building with six stores on the ground floor, at the southeast corner of Ninth and F streets northwest, was sold at public auction yesterday to Alexander Muncaster, lawyer, who said he represented the noteholders, for $150,000. Mr. Muncaster's bid, the only one offered, included a first deed of trust of $100,000. The sale was advertised by William J. Dante, William D. Hoover and John B. Cochran, trustees, and Adam A. Weschler was the auctioneer.

The building, erected in 1892, has a frontage of approximately 34 feet on F street and one of approximately 120 feet on Ninth street. It was long known as the Warder Building from its original owner, B. H. Warder. The architect of the original structure, four stories and basement, was N. T. Haller and George E. Emmons was the builder. Its original estimated cost was $35,000 and its current assessed valuation is $289,440, of which $249,440 represents land and $40,000 building.

GREEK AUTHORITIES TURN INSULL FREE

order. One of the visitors was M. Constantini, president of the Jewish Community of Athens, who also is Paraguayan consul here.

Partly as the result of the influence of American friends, and partly because of his years, the position he has held, and the affability he showed, police treated Mr. Insull as a guest during the period that he was detained.

He had the best quarters in the station house and his meals were taken in from a neighboring hotel.

Plea for Aid Denied.

Paris, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—"Mr. Insull would be too discreet to ask aid of Sir Basil," a member of the entourage of Sir Basil Zaharoff, the richest man in Europe, said today in denying reports that the Chicago utilities man had appealed for assistance.

"Nothing of the sort has taken place," the spokesman said. Sir Basil is not in Paris at present.

Samuel Insull, jr., declined to comment on reports that efforts were being made to connect him with his father's departure from France. The younger Insull said his mother was convalescing from her recent illness.

(Associated Press.)

Informed that Samuel Insull, sr., had been released by Greek authorities, the State Department yesterday made known it was renewing efforts to secure his return to face the indictments returned against him in Illinois.

The department was informed by cable from Leland B. Morris, American charge d'affaires in Athens that Insull was to be released from custody yesterday. He asked further instructions. Department officials did not indicate how the case was being pursued.

The Senate's stock market investigating committee reached out to Chicago last night to delve into the tangled evidence surrounding the collapse of the vast Insull utility empire. James E. Stewart, who has been in charge of the Senate banking committee's stock market inquiry during the summer, left Washington for Chicago to make an investigation of the Insull crash for the committee.

He carried with him the broad senatorial power to inquire into the situation, together with a number of volunteer tips which he wanted to check against the records in the case.

INSULL'S $500,000 SALARY REVEALED

Also Had Liberal Dividends, Witness at Federal Hearing Says.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, recent utility head released from custody in Athens today despite requests that he be extradited to answer charges of larceny in connection with his handling of his failed holding companies, drew a salary of half a million dollars a year at the zenith of his career. This was brought out today in Federal Court at a hearing as to what pay should be allowed receivers of Middle West Utilities. In addition he had liberal dividends, but he has said that he lost all his fortune of $100,000,000 when his trust companies collapsed last spring. He now has a pension of $21,000 a year from the solvent operating companies.

At the same time a list of 1,301 underwriters of the stock in that company when it was promulgated and their profits was published from a previous hearing. In this list were many prominent men, including a number of politicians.

Like the other syndicates that dealt in Insull utilities stocks, buying at "ground floor" prices, the list was a directory of Insull employes, friends, political leaders, financiers, merchants.

Seven Syndicates Formed.

They subscribed to Middle West common, preferred and prior lien securities totaling $189,238,900, paying sometimes as little as 6 per cent of the subscription pledge. Seven syndicates were formed to buy the issues between May, 1925, and September, 1929.

The names included a host of securities houses and Insull companies in this country and abroad—Credit Suisse, a European house, taking $10,000,000 of one issue. Others listed were Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, down for $100,000; former Senator William Lorimer, $100,000; Owen D. Young, $500,000, and Frank L. Smith, of Dwight, Ill., $50,000. It was Samuel Insull's contribution to Smith's campaign fund that kept the former Illinois Commerce Commission chairman from occupying the seat to which he was elected in the United States Senate.

While the public was perusing these lists of Insull investors it was given another insight into the Insull operating costs.

Other Salaries Listed.

Testimony concerning Insull's salary was given by Oliver McCormick, treasurer of Middle West Utilities. As chairman of Middle West alone, Insull received $50,000 a year, he said, while Martin Insull as president was paid $100,000, and Samuel Insull, jr., who did not give full time to the company, had a salary of $10,000. Other salaries divulged by McCormick were: Harry Reid, president of National Electric Power Co., New York, $50,000; Walter S. Wymnan, Augusta, Me., president of New England Public Service Co., $54,000; Marshall Sampsell, now deposed president of Central Illinois Public Service Co., $35,000.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson announced plans to go to Washington soon with two assistants in hope of soliciting President Hoover's influence for quick extradition of Samuel Insull from Greece. Insull has been indicted here for embezzlement and larceny of the funds of his companies. The prosecutor said he would send members of his staff to Athens to seek custody of Insull.

PEACEFUL CAMPAIGN ON ROAD PICKETS SET

Organized Farm Fleets Will Seek to Discourage Highway Guards.

Minneapolis, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A campaign of peaceful persuasion to combat highway pickets halting market-bound farm products was announced by the Minnesota Live Stock Truckers Association tonight.

Robert Studer, of Sauk Rapids, secretary of the organization, said live stock trucks, organized as fleets before approaching picket lines, will be accompanied by farmers.

The farmers—a few with each train of trucks—will alight as the pickets are reached, confer with leaders and attempt to dissuade the patrolling groups from their efforts to block highways and prevent nonperishables from reaching market.

The plan will go into effect immediately, Studer said, following success of a train of 47 trucks in passing through picket lines near here today.

Several drivers reported tires were punctured by nails near here, and one said his windshield was broken by clubs thrown by pickets. Near Dawson 150 chickens were liberated when a driver refused to turn back.

Gov. F. B. Olson in a statement said any act of violence "is a matter for the attention of county sheriffs and other police officers charged with enforcement of the law."

DONOVAN DESCRIBES COURAGE OF HOOVER

Candidate for Governor of New York Says It Kept National Credit Safe.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Col. William J. Donovan said tonight, "President Hoover has had the courage to hold us to the rough road, knowing that the ultimate safety of America rested upon the maintenance of its national credit and the integrity of its basic institutions."

The Republican nominee for Governor of the Empire State, speaking just before Calvin Coolidge at the Madison Square Garden rally, said the Republican party "can not adhere to that spirit of defeatism" subscribed to by "those who despair of our institutions, by those who believe that our problems are beyond solution, that we face permanent unemployment, State socialism and the dole."

Defines Issues Confronted.

He said two essential issues faced the Nation:

"How can we lighten the load that bears upon us all in the form of high expenses and high taxes? And how can we at the same time feed the hungry, clothe the naked and house the homeless?"

Under the leadership of President Hoover, Donovan said, the Nation is solving these problems and "now that we have come so far, it would be calamity for America if she were to be led astray when, though the fight is won, it is not yet over."

The President, the nominee said, "has borne the brunt and bitterness of the struggle and in that struggle he has come to know, as every leader comes to know, that in the fight itself you learn how to carry it through."

Intelligent Economy Urged.

Declaring that "in time of emergency those, who through no fault of their own, are in distress have a right to look to the Government for aid," Donovan said it is the duty of governments to "practice intelligent economy" to be able to meet this burden.

In introducing the nominee for governor, Gen. James Harbord, chairman of the rally, said:

"He may wear the sobriquet of 'wild,' but let me tell you that he was never so wild that he did not know where he was going, why he was going there and how he intended to arrive."

BORAH OUTLINES FOUR-POINT PLAN TO HASTEN RECOVERY

about these economic problems which come home to you every waking hour of your life. When homes are being lost, farms abandoned or taken for taxes, agriculture sinking farther into the mire of debt, business in distress, and 10,000,000 men and women asking for work and unable to find it, the supreme question is, 'How shall we escape the devastating effect of these various economic forces?'

"There are a number of questions, local and national, which one might well discuss, but the great fundamental problems, upon which all others depend, are:

"First—World markets have been destroyed and the great problem is how to restore them. Until we do so, we can not hope for a rise in the price of commodities.

"Second—The monetary systems of the world have been broken up and demoralized and the problem is how to restore them and how to adapt them to present conditions. Until we do so, we can not hope for that confidence which brings prosperity to business.

"Third—The last 25 years have witnessed such an increase of waste and extravagance in the Government from the lowest unit of Government to the highest that taxes are now literally destructive—to own property is to invite ruin. The expenditure of public money approaches a national crime.

"Fourth—By reason of adverse economic forces and the change in money values, debts have piled up beginning with the farm and ending with Government until men are no longer working with a view to build, to construct, to develop, but to pay, as it were, for a dead horse.

Refrains From Criticism.

"These are the problems for which answer must be found.

"In discussing these matters, let me say I do not criticize the efforts which have been made in the way of extending loans and in extending credit by the Government, and in helping in this way to steady the situation to arrest somewhat the trend of the depression, but I do say that unless we find a solution for the problems which I have stated, there is no ultimate relief in the policies thus far pursued.

"The first proposition is that commodity prices can not permanently rise and the purchasing power of the people can not be restored until the great post-war problems, which have destroyed commerce and broken up trade, are adjusted. The potatoes which are to rot out yonder in the field and the crops which will go ungarnered, or unsold, are the result of the almost insane economic policies which have tortured the human family for twelve long years.

Money and the Farmer.

"The second proposition is the money question. The monetary systems have broken down. The farmer can not get sufficient credit or find sufficient currency to pay the expenses of gathering his crop. A great deal is said about an honest dollar. That is precisely what we desire, what everybody would have.

"But I contend that a dollar which takes three times as much wheat, four times as much cotton, three times as much pork to buy as it would have taken three years ago, is not an honest dollar. It is not a sound dollar. It is a dishonest dollar. It cheats the toiler between the time he eats his breakfast and the time he returns for his supper.

"Nobody is proposing to abandon the gold standard, although 28 nations have done so. But it is my contention that much can be added to the use of gold with perfect safety. We have sufficient gold in this country to give a basis for a sufficient amount of currency with which to do business and afford the people a medium of exchange."

ALEXANDRIA SEEKS WATER PLANT PLAN

Special Committee Named to Find Engineer Who Can Decide Needs.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council last night adopted a resolution authorizing the special water committee of the council, composed of E. C. Davison, Henry O'B. Cooper and Michael T. Dwyer, to investigate and report to the council the name of a competent engineer or engineering firm capable of making a preliminary examination, plans and specifications for a water plant for the city which will furnish an ample supply of water for all purposes, together with an estimate of cost for the installation of such a plant. The committee is to also procure a preliminary estimate of making a complete survey of the water situation.

In the event it becomes necessary for the city to install a water system of its own, it has been tentatively determined that the necessary funds may be obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, provided the project is self-liquidating.

Opinions were received from the city attorney that the city has authority to have its sealer of weights and measures inspect meters of public utilities, including those of the Alexandria Water Co. Similar authority in the case of gasoline pumps and standards also exists, according to the city attorney, and the city manager was instructed to place the latter service in effect immediately.

A communication was received from the clerk of the school board advising the council that the terms of Urban S. Lambert and Gardner L. Boothe, members of the board, will expire December 1. Their successors must be elected not later than November 1. A letter was also received from Mr. Lambert, who is chairman of the board, stating he will not be a candidate for reelection.

The financial report of the city for September showed a cash balance September 1 of $39,010.54; budget receipts of $71,758.52; other receipts not estimated in the budget of $1,607.55, or total receipts of $112,376.51. The disbursements were: Budget, $62,218; other disbursements not estimated in the budget, $5,138.93, or total disbursements of $67,356.93, leaving a cash balance October 1, of $45,019.58.

Card Party to Raise Money for Town's Debts

Finances of the town of Capitol Heights will be supported by profits from a card party to be given by ladies of the town, it was assured yesterday after the council had given permission for the benefit. After paying a number of outstanding bills, the town found itself with less than $100 in the treasury after the last council meeting.

Mrs. Vernon D. Acres, president of the Mother's Club, is behind the plan to give a card party, and she will be assisted by several other women of the community. The town has an electric light bill of $167 still due, although it has paid two other monthly light bills and the interest on the town's bonds, which were five months overdue. A portion of the road rebate fund also remains to be paid to the town from the county.

Gasoline Vending Finding Returned

Not Subject to Regulation by County Board, Its Attorney Rules.

Gasoline tank wagons in Prince Georges County are not subject to regulation by the county commissioners, the board was told yesterday by its attorney, M. Hampton Magruder. The wagons used for roadside sale of gasoline are still subject to the zoning regulations and gasoline tax laws, however.

An application by J. F. McClure for permission to establish a dog and cat hospital in the 5,000 block of Rhode Island avenue, in Hyattsville, was also received by the commissioners yesterday. The application was turned over to Commissioner George N. Bowen for investigation. Roland James Carrick, 22, of Seat Pleasant, applied for a place on the county police force.

The commissioners approved the $200,000 bond issue proposed by the Suburban Sanitary Commission for the extension of water and sewer lines in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties. They also decided that complaints about tax assessments would be heard on October 25 at 1 o'clock.

Southern Maryland Dry Raids Net Six Suspects

Federal agents working in southern Maryland yesterday arrested six men, four of them charged with manufacture and two with transportation of whisky. Frederick A. Reamy, 22 years old, and Louis R. Monroe, 18, both of Alexandria, were arrested near T. B. with 36 gallons of alleged liquor in their car.

Clarence and Robert Simmons, of Welcome, Md.; Guy Watson, of Dentsville, and Joseph Skinner, of T. B., were arrested in connection with a raid on a still near Dentsville. In addition to the 300-gallon still, 2,100 gallons of mash and seven cases of the finished product were found. The four are charged with manufacture, possession, and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor, and maintaining a nuisance.

Physicians Urged to Join Public Fight on Disease

Dr. Cumming Says Private Research Funds Will Be Inadequate to keep Medical Knowledge Advancing; Speaks to Maryland State Society.

The medical profession should not sit Canute-like, futilely trying to stem the tide of changing events with the meaningless cry of "State medicine," Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, yesterday told the Maryland State Medical Society at its meeting in the Manor Club, near Norbeck, Md.

He said modern medicine requires an army of medical men to go forth and fight in the fields of research, even as a trained army of soldiers has replaced the calling of the plowman from his field to war. The time will come when private research funds will not be adequate to keep medical knowledge advancing, he said. He urged the private practitioner to join hands with the Public Health Service, instead of battling it, so that medicine might remain true to its traditions of self-sacrifice.

Dr. Dean Lewis, professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins University, said the alleged high cost of medical attention in many cases can be traced to the patient himself. He pointed out that patients who could be cared for in a ward are moved into expensive private rooms. He said, however, that the physician should refrain from ordering expensive X-ray and laboratory tests unless they were absolutely necessary.

Dr. F. Lloyd Johnson, of Baltimore, president-elect of the American Medical Association, spoke on technical aspects of mumps and similar diseases.

The meeting was the first held by the State society in Montgomery County since 1923. Mrs. Upton D. Nourse, of Darnestown was chairman of the reception committee, assisted by Mrs. Dexter M. Bullard, Mrs. William A. Linthicum, Mrs. Howard H. Howlett, Mrs. William E. Lewis and Mrs. Claude W. Mitchell. The committee on arrangements included Dr. J. W. K. OF C. TO DEDICATE NEW HOME TONIGHT

Arlington County Bureau of The Post, Clarendon, Va., Tel. Clar. 509.

The formal opening of the new home of Edward Douglass White Council, Knights of Columbus, on Garrison road, Clarendon, will be held tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock. County officials, members of other fraternal organizations and other friends of the council have been invited to inspect the new home.

The home of the council, formerly owned by the Collison estate, has been completely renovated for use as a clubhouse. Grand Knight B. F. Toulotte stated last night that the council will make additional improvements to the building and grounds.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the Rosslyn Precinct Civic League, Arlington County, Manager Roy S. Braden declared that he approved the extension of Wilson boulevard as an approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge.

He pointed out that the extension of Wilson boulevard would open up a number of side roads in the Rosslyn section and make the development of that section more rapid. Also, he said, it would be more convenient for motorists traveling the Lee highway from Fairfax and Falls Church.

Despite the fact that one piece of property for right of way is being held for $16,000, Braden stated that he was confident the project could be so worked out that the cost would not be excessive.

Dr. Victor Meyer was unanimously elected president. Other officers elected were: William E. A. McShea, vice president; C. F. Rauth secretary, and Robert E. Plymale, treasurer.

Mrs. Edith R. Hill, of Ashton Heights, has been selected as the winner in the Bicentennial Garden Contest held in Arlington County by a committee headed by Gilbert Hall. The announcement was made yesterday by Paul W. Bowman, president of the Arlington County Garden Club.

The committee in its report includes the following persons whose gardens were considered among the outstanding in the county: S. Groome Eareckson, 211 Oak street, Lyon Village; Mrs. H. C. Rothery, 714 Miller avenue, Waverley Hills; John T. Lipscomb, 205 Clarendon avenue, Clarendon; Miss Bessie Christian, Radnor Heights; Charles H. Ford, Woodmont; Dr. J. H. Walton, Cherrydale; Miss A. E. Hawkins, 307 South Spruce street, Lyon Park; Robert L. Eacho, 540 Marion avenue, Ashton Heights; Howard F. Allard, 119 Fort avenue, Lyon Park; C. W. Clever, Lyon Village; W. L. Strickler, Mulhall station, Ballston; Chester W. Martin, 237 Lee highway, Cherrydale, and Joseph Kirchner, Prescott street, Barcroft.

Meeting last night at Virginia Highlands the Jefferson Civic League went on record to continue its fight against the erection of the proposed rendering plant by the Norton & Co. to be erected at Washington-Richmond highway and Columbia pike.

The league decided that all subscriptions should be received by Charles T. Thrope, of Virginia Highlands, treasurer of the association.

Jordon Singhas was elected president of the Athletic Association of the Washington-Lee High School at Ballston yesterday. Other officers are Ellerson Gallaway, vice president; Buddy Selby, treasurer, and Margaret Kirschner, secretary.

Police Destroy Supply Of Fine Wine and Rum

A cell in the Alexandria police station yesterday gave up its hoard of fine wines and liquors, 175 gallons stored at headquarters, some of it for more than ten years, after being seized from bootleggers. Included in the assortment were several bottles of champagne, Scotch and rye whisky. This is the last of the old stock on hand and it was destroyed under the direction of Police Capt. John S. Arnold.

For a number of years visitors to headquarters have peered through the bars of the cell at the stacks of bottles and crates with longing eyes.

COUNTY TEACHERS' PAY CUT IS AVERTED

School Economies Will Be Effected by Other Means in Montgomery.

Montgomery County school teachers are not going to have their salaries reduced this year. The county board of education yesterday voted to maintain the present teacher and substitute salary scales when it was assured by the Montgomery County commissioners that cooperation by the school board in certain economies will permit retention of the 1931-32 basis of pay.

According to Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, most of the savings are to be effected through consolidation of schools and by careful purchasing of equipment.

No schools will be consolidated, however, where the student body is large enough to warrant their being kept open.

Announcement of the proposed cut in teachers' salaries brought forth a storm of protest from civic groups all over the county. The Montgomery County Civic Federation adopted a resolution asking that the board retain as far as possible the salaries of the teachers.

The board appointed Mrs. Charles Brown and William Hines as trustees of the Brighton School. Appointment of the following teachers was confirmed: Miss Edith Barnett, Gaithersburg High School; Miss Elizabeth Mooney, Garrett Park primary room; Miss Goldie C. Crist, Colesville elementary; Miss Hazel Owings, Unity one-teacher school; Miss Della Furser, Rockville elementary; Miss Janet C. Prince, Rockville commercial department; Miss Margaret Lohr, clerk, Rockville High School, and Mrs. Mary O. Fulks, Sherwood Elementary School.

ADDITION TO LAUREL SCHOOL REQUESTED

Prince Georges Student Is Giving Up Scholarship at M. I. A. D.

Two requests asking the immediate construction of an addition to the Laurel School were presented to the Prince Georges County school board yesterday in letters terming the need for the new school "most imperative."

The addition requested was included in a schedule of work to be financed by a $275,000 bond issue approved by the last Legislature, but held up because of the low prices offered for bonds. Yesterday's pleas were made by the Men's Club of Laurel and by the Women's Club. The board will consider the requests later.

John Dent appeared before the board to ask that the Accokeek-Oxon Hill bus line be rerouted through Sharpsville, and the board ordered Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools, to consider the request. The board's next meeting, which would fall on election day, November 8, was postponed to November 11. E. M. Suit appeared to ask that the second trip of the Largo-Maryland Park school bus be made from Maryland Park to Ritchie, to pick up additional children. This was granted.

Martha Lee Gilbert, of Laurel, notified the board that she was surrendering her scholarship to the Maryland Institute of Arts and Design because of her approaching marriage. The board will entertain applications from those who desire to finish out her two-year course.

Permission to use the vacant North Keys or Croome Schools for nondenominational gospel meeting was refused on the grounds that the request was sectarian. The application for the schools was made by Misses Jean Girvan and Charlotte Morgan.

Several applications for permission to enter children under 5 in the school system were received, but refused because the schools already are overcrowded. A number of applications for additional bus service also were received, but refused because of lack of funds.

Sealed bids from persons desiring to buy the vacant school buildings at Cedar Grove, Fairy Springs, Croome and Melwood will be received by the board at their meeting on November 11. Maurice Ball was appointed trustee of the Allentown school in place of E. L. Wilcox, who resigned.

TRUST LAW REFORM URGED BY BAR GROUP

Chairman Butler Gives Bill He Declares Would Protect Public.

The American Bar Association yesterday was urged to seek modification of existing antitrust laws, through legislation sanctioning use of the trade agreement, in a report by Chairman Rush C. Butler, of its commerce committee.

He submitted a bill which, he said, would "relieve business men from the fear of criminal prosecution which now deters them from entering into lawful contracts, and at the same time safeguard the rights of the public against unreasonable restraints and monopoly."

He stipulated that the agreements be filed with the Department of Justice, and subject to its objection.

Admitting outright repeal of the Sherman and Clayton antitrust laws would be harmful to business and public welfare, Mr. Butler declared unharmful contracts should be permitted for the good of business generally.

"The proposal of this committee," he said, "is dual. First, it provides that contracts voluntarily filed with the Attorney General and the Federal Trade Commission shall become effective automatically, unless objection is made thereto by the Department of Justice or an interested person. In this event, they may be made effective by the commission after due open hearings.

"Second, it provides that parties to contracts becoming effective are exempt from the criminal, threefold damage and confiscatory provisions of the Sherman law."

Speaking before the session on interstate relationships and compacts, Francis C. Wilson, of Santa Fe, declared, "Return to the States of their police power over the liquor traffic, by repeal of the eighteenth amendment, appears to be a probability of the near future." After repeal, he said, State compacts should be made to protect dry areas against the importations of liquor from wet sections.

GROWTH OF CRIME BLAMED ON DRY LAW BY BAR GROUPS

immediately engaged in the business of supplying this demand of the American public who would not have lent themselves to the violation of other laws.

"Not only did a great section of the American public look with approval upon the violation of the law itself, but those engaged in its violation were, nevertheless, considered respectable citizens whose services were more or less essential to the comfort and well-being of the community. Applying American methods of mass production and wholesale operation, this business of supplying beer and liquor rapidly progressed from the individual to the organization, employing many hundreds.

"The absence of this same element of moral turpitude likewise made it easier to secure—the protection and cooperation of police and other supposed law enforcement officers. With the organization complete in all of its ramifications and contacts, the really vicious and criminal element in the gangs' personnel found it a perfect medium for the violation of other laws than that to which it was originally directed."

Bribery of Officials.

Mr. Bowman said gangsters are afraid to operate only in cities where they are unable to elect to find a powerful enforcing official who will accept bribes for fixing criminal cases, adding, "There appear to be few of such cities in the United States."

As remedies, the report proposed education, religious training, "cleaning out" processes in local police departments, and elimination of corrupt judiciary.

"To control the activities of the gangsters it is necessary that the police department, sheriff, prosecuting attorney and the courts cooperate, and they form a chain which is no stronger than its weakest link," said Mr. Bowman. "The failure of any one of the four to function is apt to let down the bars for the illegal enterprise of the modern gang."

Need for Statistics.

Need for more authentic official statistics for court and legal reference was urged before the judicial section by Dean Roscoe ound of the Harvard law school. He said available information was woefully inadequate.

"Nothing could be more discouraging than our experience with official statistics published under State authority," he told the jurists.

He suggested a special department of government might handle the data, as is done in Europe.

Extension of adult and juvenile probation methods through legislation and social administration, was proposed by Charles Evans Hughes, jr., son of the Chief Justice, and Charles L. Chute, of New York.

Crime Is Youth Problem.

Discussing the adult phase, Mr. Hughes suggested that society "cull out from the mess of human beings who daily go through the mill of the criminal courts those whom society would be safe in having returned to it without incarceration, and to set them apart from those whose return would be a continuing menace."

Mr. Chute said crime is largely a youth problem; that its beginnings are to be found in misdirected childhood.

Judge Harold B. Wells, of the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, urged the need of "more religion" in the bar and on the bench at the judicial council dinner. Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, of the District Supreme Court, discussed the development of "Nisi Prius Courts."

Doomed Murderer Is Suicide.

Parochial School Seeks Bus Rights

Prince Georges County Board Gets Petition With 50 Names.

Two petitions asking permission for pupils of St. Mary's Parochial School to ride on public school buses when space permits were presented to the Prince Georges County school board yesterday and referred to the board's attorney for an opinion on the legality of the proposal.

About 50 names were signed to the petitions, which point out that children attending parochial schools are saving the State the expense of educating them. They ask that the children be given transportation only on the school bus lines serving the Marlboro school.

Some time ago a similar request was made to St. Marys County authorities, but was denied on the ground that such action would be illegal.

VOTER INTIMIDATION PROOF IS DEMANDED

Civil Service Board Calls on Costello to Submit Support of Charges.

The Civil Service Commission will "go to the utmost limit of its power and influence" to protect the voting rights of Government employes, Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, head of the commission, said yesterday in a letter addressed to John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman of the District.

Gov. Campbell's letter was prompted by publication of a statement by Mr. Costello that he had been informed of instances in which Government workers had been intimidated by bureau chiefs or subchiefs. The letter was made public by Gov. Compbell, but Mr. Costello said it had not reached him last night and he would withhold any comment until he had received and read it.

Text of Commission's Letter.

The letter follows:

"Reference is made to newspaper statements attributed to you to the effect that Federal workers had received warning 'that they had better forego their voting privileges this year,' and that one woman had been refused leave to go to her home to register because of her political opinions. You are further quoted as stating that two specific instances had come to your attention in which Federal officials were guilty of endeavoring to prevent voting by employes in the approaching election.

"The Civil Service Commission has the duty of preventing civil service employes from indulging in objectionable political activity. It believes that it is also charged with the duty of protecting all civil service employes in the exercise of their civil rights. It believes that it should use its power and influence to prevent any Federal official from denying to his subordinates the privilege of exercising their civil rights.

"Will Go to Utmost Limit."

"The commission will go to the utmost limit of its power and influence to prevent such abuse of the rights of Federal employes as would be entailed in preventing voting because of the opinion which the employes might have or the party for which he might vote. It might be said in passing that this policy is in conformity with the expressed views of the President.

"The commission, therefore, requests that you furnish information concerning the two specific cases which have come to your attention and such other instances as may in the future be brought to your notice, in order that it may proceed to investigate them and inflict such penalties as may be justified and required by the facts developed.

"It particularly desires information concerning the names of the supervisors who are charged with the offense of influencing Federal employes not to exercise their right of suffrage. The commission feels sure that you will desire to cooperate in maintaining the utmost political liberty of the Federal employes, while at the same time preventing political abuses."

CHANGE IN BUILDING APPRAISALS IS URGED

Contractors Favor Reform in Practices to Protect Investing Public.

Advocating drastic reform in building appraisal practices, general adoption of the standard mechanics' lien law and the creation of a cooperative legislative committee embracing representation from all elements of the construction industry, the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America terminted its two-day fall meeting here yesterday. A. C. Trozzer, vice president of the Turner Construction Co., New York City, and A. J. McKenzie, of the McKenzie Construction Co., San Antonio, Tex., were nominated as president and vice president, respectively, of the association.

The board also adopted resolutions remonstrating against the diversion of the gasoline tax or any motor vehicle license fees to any purpose other than road and street construction and maintenance. The industry was urged to make a study of the effect of the various methods of local, State and Federal taxation upon the welfare of the construction industry.

The board declared that in order to avoid unsound or fraudulent financing of construction, which has too often been made possible through a lack of appraisal standards and through appraisals made by unqualified persons, a means should be provided for the public to assure itself of the soundness of projects upon which real estate securities depend. The board urged that the construction industry unite for the adoption throughout the country of a system of licensing certified building appraisers and developing a standard method of appraisal.

The recommendations of the board will be reported today at the fall meeting here of the policy committee of the Construction League of the United States, of which the Associated General Contractors, with fourteen other national trade associations of the construction industry, is a member.

CHESAPEAKE FERRY BATTLE TAKEN HERE

I. C. C. Asked to Disapprove Railway's Plan to Get Loan From R. F. C.

Continuing its efforts to block the proposed extension of the Chesapeake Beach Railway to the Eastern Shore of Maryland by a ferry service from Chesapeake Beach, the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to disapprove the railway's application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of $200,000 to finance the project.

The commission has previously ruled that the railway had the right to establish the ferry service. This opinion was fought unsuccessfully through the courts of the District and the United States Supreme Court by the ferry company.

The filing of the brief yesterday was a further action of the ferry company's consistent fight to defeat the establishment of a ferry service on the bay below its service from Annapolis. It asks the commission to deny the request for the loan which the railway would use for the purchase of two boats at a cost of $500,000, for dockage facilities and for the payment of miscellaneous obligations.

The argument presented in the brief rested on six main points. They were:

1. That granting the loan would violate the purpose of the acts creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. That the railway has no legal authority to engage in a general ferry business.

3. That the railway can not provide the service described in the loan application.

4. That the estimates of revenue and expenses of the venture are unsound.

5. That the R. F. C. will not be adequately secured for the loan.

6. That the proposed ferry would be detrimental to existing enterprise.

As the Interstate Commerce Commission gives prompt attention to all loan applications, it is believed this action will soon be taken in this case.

Murder Charged To Hospital Men

Beating by Three Attaches Is Alleged Cause of Veteran's Death.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Three attendants at United States Veterans' Hospital No. 62 here were arraigned today before United States Commissioner Skinner on charges of murder in the death of Charles K. Dickinson, a patient from Somerville, Tenn.

The men, Rogers D. Brown, alias Austin L. Brown; Aaron E. Ott, and Walter E. Epps, pleaded not guilty. A preliminary hearing will be held as soon as District Attorney Walter W. Sheppard, of Savannah, can be here for the case.

Brown and Ott were arrested today on the hospital grounds, while Epps was taken into custody at Blythe, Ga. Officers said they were advised Epps recently resigned his job at the hospital. Dickinson died last Saturday. A death certificate gave the cause of death as pneumonia caused by an accidental fall. At the arraignment it was charged Dickinson was beaten by the defendants and died of his wounds.

Commons Given Report On Canadian Rail Waste

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The royal commission on transportation reported to the House of Commons today that Canadian railways have been indulging in wasteful competition when they should have been cooperating to meet the menace of highway traffic. The report was tabled.

This report was made only a few week after Sir Henry Thornton had resigned as president of the Canadian National Railways, the publicly owned rival of the Canadian Pacific. When he stepped down, Sir Henry conceded the activity of the royal commission was partly responsible. "Public criticism" was given as another reason.

FORMER MICHIGAN SENATOR SUCCUMBS

William Alden Smith, 73, Served in Congress for Quarter of Century.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator William Alden Smith, whose quarter of a century of service in Congress embraced both the Spanish-American and World War periods, died at his home here this afternoon. He was 73 years old.

Known as "the friendliest man in Michigan," his ability to call countless men in almost every hamlet of the State by their first names was the envy of friend and foe alike.

His interest in politics continued even after his retirement from the Senate in 1919, after serving two terms. He had been active in the present campaign in his home city until Saturday, when he suffered a slight heart attack. He was believed on the road to recovery when the second and fatal attack came late today.

Other interests were journalism, which matured in his purchase in 1906 of the Grand Rapids Herald, law and finance. He was a member of a prominent law firm and served as president for several years of one of Grand Rapids' largest banks.

As a vigorous champion of McKinley, Mr. Smith was first nominated and elected to Congress in 1894. A close associate of Speakers Thomas B. Read and Joseph G. Cannon, he was given recognition by appointments to important committees.

In 1907, the Michigan Legislature elected him to the United States Senate to succeed Gen. Russell A. Alger.

During his twelve years in the Senate, he was ranking member of the committees on foreign relations, naval affairs and commerce. In 1916, Senator Smith was defeated in the presidential preference primary in Michigan by Henry Ford.

Mr. Smith was born in Dowagiac, Mich., May 12, 1859. In 1886, he was married to Miss Nana Osterout, of Grand Rapids. Their only child, William Alden Smith, jr., died within a year after the World War, in which he saw service.

DREADING INSANITY, S. L. AVERY, JR., DIES

Chicago Business Man Kills Self on Anniversary of Parents' Wedding.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Sewell L. Avery, jr., 31-year-old son of one of the Nation's foremost business executives, killed himself today after, physicians said, 10 years of fear that he was becoming insane.

A butler in the Avery apartment on Lake Shore Drive found the body of young Avery, a successful business man in his own right, in the living room. His head rested in a fireplace from which were pouring fumes from a burning grate.

Avery, sr., is chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., president of the United States Gypsum Co., and a director of United States Steel, Armour & Co., the Chicago Daily News, the Chicago Great Western Railroad, and many other corporations.

Dr. George F. Dick, physician to young Avery for ten years, gave evidence at the inquest today which caused the coroner's jury to return a verdict of "suicide while mentally depressed."

This was Mr. and Mrs. Avery's thirty-third wedding anniversary. Sewell L., jr., was their only son and was unmarried. He had been general manager of the United States Gypsum Co. plant at Philadelphia, but returned home last spring to rest at his parents' home.

McCormick Estate Settling Reported

Chicago Is Told Rearrangement of Bequests Has Been Agreed Upon.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The News says a rearrangement through mutual agreement of the bequests in Edith Rockefeller McCormick's estate was under way today.

Under the purported arrangement, the paper says, Mrs. McCormick's business adviser and friend, Edwin D. Krenn, would return his five-twelfths inheritance to the estate and in return be appointed manager of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust, in which is contained much of Mrs. McCormick's real estate holdings.

Krenn previously had agreed to turn over to his partner, Edward A. Dato, his five-twelfths share—estimated at $10,000,000— in exchange for a $24,000 annuity.

Under the new arrangement, according to the News, Krenn still would have a guaranteed annual income of $24,000 and probably would be able to make considerable more on commissions on sales and collections.

Doctors Puzzled By Illness of 115

Children, Inmates of Ohio Home, Are Seized by Nausea Attacks.

Xenia, Ohio, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—One hundred and fifteen children, inmates of the Soldiers and Sailors Home here, today were in a hospital here suffering from an ailment which physicians have failed to diagnose.

The children were seized with attacks of vomiting and diarrhea, but were reported not in a serious condition. School authorities said the ailment probably was caused by food, but physicians said an analysis of the food, water and milk supply failed to disclose the source of the trouble.

Six hundred other children and 200 employes were not ill. Dr. A. C. Messenger, resident physician at the home, said that the ill children will be discharged from the hospital within a few days.

Davis, former American Secretary of War and more lately Governor General of the Philippines, died last night at a Berlin private hospital where she had undergone treatment for a chronic ailment for two weeks. She had been ill several years.

Two daughters, Alice and Cynthia, were in Berlin at the time of their mother's death. One of them left for Paris tonight. Funeral arrangements have not been made public.

Death was caused by complications resulting from arthritis, from which she suffered for four years and which kept her from accompanying her husband to the Philippines. It was largely because of her serious illness that Gov. Davis resigned his post at Manila last January.

Since that he spent the greater part of his time with Mrs. Davis, who was in Paris before her recent removal to Germany. He returned to St. Louis recently.

Mrs. Davis was Miss Helen Brooks, of Boston, before her marriage in 1905 to Mr. Davis. She took part in the social life of Washington while her husband was in the Cabinet.

The Very Rev. Father Burke, prior of St. Dominic's Church, will conduct services tonight at the opening of the mission for men of the Holy Name Society of Holy Trinity Church. The meetings will continue through tomorrow and Friday.

MR. COOLIDGE SPEAKS.

The millions of citizens who pay heed to the plain and homely counsel of Calvin Coolidge are not disappointed by his address, delivered in New York last night. Voters of all parties have no difficulty whatever in understanding him. He has the Lincoln faculty of stating complex questions in simple terms so that they can be grasped by those whom he calls "the ordinary run of people."

The former President at the beginning reasserted his faith in the Republican party, and urged the re-election of President Hoover. He referred to the desire of some people for a change on the theory that conditions could not be worse. "Things are much worse in other parts of the world," remarked Mr. Coolidge; "they could be a great deal worse here than they are, and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage, and the leadership of President Hoover."

The revelations made by Mr. Hoover in his Des Moines speech fortify this remark by Mr. Coolidge. This country has been saved disasters that have fallen upon other countries. Mr. Coolidge suggests that if any governmental remedy could have been found for the world decline in business some government would have found it. No government has warded off adversity. Hence he concludes that "the present economic condition was brought about by forces which no government could foresee and prevent."

Referring to the Democratic plank demanding a "competitive" tariff, Mr. Coolidge remarks that "the words are not new but their meaning is not very definite." Since many commodities are now selling for less than the cost of production, he thinks "our producers are not suffering from any lack of competition." He asks whether American agriculture is to be put in competition with that of Canada, Australia and Argentina, and whether American industry is to compete with Europe, and whether American labor is to be required to compete with that of China, India and Japan. Gov. Roosevelt should enlighten the country as to what is meant by a competitive tariff. Who is to bear the burden—agriculture, industry, or labor?

Mr. Coolidge makes a strong appeal to Democrats by reminding them of President Cleveland's refusal to make treaties because they surrendered large revenues and might have prevented the United States from increasing tariffs in an emergency. "Reciprocity on a large scale is not practical," Mr. Coolidge declares. He points out that when domestic producers are sacrificed for the benefit of other producers there will be intense jealousy and dissension.

The former President refers to the frequent charge that President Hoover "lacks leadership," and reminds the country that Democratic leaders in Congress promised a "constructive program" in 1928, 1930, and 1931, and that no such program was forthcoming. On the contrary, the Democratic House whittled President Hoover's economy program from $200,000,000 down to $40,000,000, and then passed bills which, if they had become law, would have drained the Treasury of more than $3,000,000,000 for the veterans' bonus and unnecessary postoffices. Mr. Coolidge reminded his hearers that if the bonus bill providing for adulterated money had become law the United States would have been forced off the gold standard, Government bonds would have lost value, and the Treasury would have been bankrupted. The silence of Gov. Roosevelt on the bonus question is held by Mr. Coolidge to be a detriment to business recovery.

Speaking of the common man, Mr. Coolidge described Republican policy as one that sought to create a condition whereby the ordinary man would have an opportunity to find a market for whatever he had to sell, whether of production or labor. This condition could not exist unless business could be conducted at a profit. "Always the end has been to improve the well-being of the ordinary run of people," says Mr. Coolidge.

The tribute paid to Mr. Hoover by Mr. Coolidge at the conclusion of his address is a remarkable resume of a life filled with unequaled accomplishments in behalf of humanity. The mere recital of these deeds disposes of the campaign charge that President Hoover is indifferent to the condition of the "ordinary run of people."

The calm and matter-of-fact address of Mr. Coolidge is of immense benefit to the Republican cause. Public interest will now be centered upon the forthcoming address of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in which he is expected to drive home all the arguments in favor of Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy for President.

VIRGINIA'S GERRYMANDER.

Virginia politics are thrown into a muddle by the decision of the Supreme Court of Appeals that the redistricting act of 1932 is unconstitutional. All of Virginia's nine congressmen must be elected by State-wide voting. In the present Congress Virginia has 10 representatives. The necessity of wiping out one district made a reapportionment within the State necessary. When the act by which that was accomplished is held illegal there is no alternative to the election of nine representatives at large.

The situation is particularly confusing because 36 candidates will have their names on the ballot and voters will have to express a preference for nine of them. Most of the representatives are well known only in their own districts. They have been campaigning within the few counties that they represent. Now they must suddenly extend their campaigns to the entire State.

Republican candidates for Congress will find the decision especially disconcerting. Four years ago three Republican congressmen were elected in Virginia, and in 1930 Representative Lankford, of the second district, retained his seat. But there seems to be little hope for Republican candidates this year, when the entire Virginia electorate will pass judgment upon all aspirants to Congress.

In spite of this confusion the decision of the Virginia high court will be generally applauded. The redistricting law passed by the last legislature is a gerrymandering atrocity. Virginia has a population of 2,421,851 to be divided into nine districts. Each district should have about 269,000 inhabitants. But the court found that the legislature had given the largest district 152,720 more people than were allowed the smallest district. Such wide disparity defeats the purpose of a reapportionment of congressional seats and flouts both the Virginia and the United States Constitutions.

Redistricting in most of the States since the reapportionment act was passed has been unsatisfactory. Political groups have juggled district lines to serve their own partisan interests. Congressional districts must be homogeneous and virtually equal in population to satisfy constitutional requirements. Yet some of Virginia's districts include widely separated counties connected by an isthmus of land. Such apportionment is a travesty on representative government. It is to be hoped that the courts will continue to invalidate redistricting acts until both the territory and the population is distributed honestly and fairly, without regard to the political advantages of any clique.

THE TIMES' NEW DRESS.

It is difficult for most Americans to realize the furor which any change in the appearance of The Times of London causes among the conservative readers of that ancient newspaper. The Thunderer's headpiece in modest Gothic letters, flanking the device of the lion and the unicorn, has been a familiar sight for 140 years. The first copies have arrived in this country showing the new heading set in the plain block Roman type that was used for five years previous to 1792, when the name "The Times" was added to the Daily Universal Register. That earlier name eventually was dropped.

The body type, or "dress" of The Times, is entirely new throughout and has been the subject of much study on the part of the management. It is the result of exhaustive research by both scientific and practical authorities with the idea of producing a type designed for "easy reading." When the exact form had been decided upon it was specially cut and cast for The Times.

Described in the precise words of the paper itself "the most conspicuous change from the former founts of The Times is that, as the main stems and curves of the letters are thicker, they carry more ink; in other words the letters look blacker and consequently are more clearly outlined against the paper against which they are impressed. Thus increased perceptibility is assured. It does not follow that the very highest perceptibility is of itself enough to determine the choice of a fount. It would be possible to employ type in which the high perceptibility of the constituent letters would be lost in an illegibility of the words they constitute. Every endeavor has been made to render the new Roman obedient to the canons of the medical research council and to the distinguished opthalmic authority to whom interim proofs were submitted for testing."

This brief extract from four lengthy articles explaining the momentous change must suffice to reassure admirers of The Times that the step has not been taken without solemn consideration. As it is explained, the new dress "contains no aesthetic frivolity or other meddlesome quality secured at the expense of that perfect discipline without which any fount is a vain thing, fondly invented."

It only remains, after such assurance that the changes of hair lines in the body type are all designed to facilitate "readability", to repeat the promise that no revolutionary alterations in make-up are contemplated. Rest assured there will be no poster captions screaming from the pages of The Thunderer. Roman may come and Gothic may go, but news headings will be confined strictly as of yore to single columns.

THE COLUMBUS PHAROS.

This day, the 440th anniversary of the discovery of America, is celebrated in many ways and in many places in honor of Christopher Columbus. The most ambitious project yet conceived to raise a permanent and fitting monument to the great navigator is the proposed beacon at Santo Domingo, a great light to guide the modern voyagers of both sea and air. Throughout all Latin-America, in every capital and in many other cities, there are innumerable statues of Cristobal Colon, but the monumental lighthouse in the Dominican Republic is to be something of greater significance than simply the tribute of a single city or nation. It is to be a testimonial at once of international good will and a memorial of the discoverer who opened the western world to civilization.

It is particularly fitting that Santo Domingo, the first permanent Christian settlement in the new world, should be selected for the site of the monument. It was here that Columbus maintained a residence. It was the scene of his triumphs and his sorrows, and in the belief of many persons his bones are interred there.

A distinct step in the progress of the lighthouse project was made last year when, at the final competition held in Rio de Janeiro, selection of a design was made, and the $10,000 prize offered by the Dominican government was awarded to a young British architect, J. L. Gleave.

The lighthouse design is of most unusual and striking character. It is in the form of a gigantic cross, recumbent or inlaid upon the ground. It is to be most solidly constructed with steel framework and concrete, with the surface coloring illuminated at night so that it will be visible many miles at sea. In cloudy weather the outlines would be reflected upon the clouds. It is planned to have the monument constructed entirely by voluntary contributions from many nations. The project has been approved by the Pan American Union, and has been greatly fostered by the untiring and unselfish efforts of William E. Pulliam, General Receiver of Dominican customs. Recent years of depression have not been conducive to the inauguration of an active financial campaign, but in due time, this country in common with the other republics of the continent, will do its full share toward the erection of the great memorial.

BEEBE, SEA EXPLORER

From the Kansas City Star.

William Beebe, deep-sea explorer, has lived a life of many strange adventures in the world of science. In his mental makeup there abides an insatiable curiosity about living things and the origins of life. Science, for him, is associated with romance and adventure. Mysteries of the jungles fascinate him. The sea is an aqueous undiscovered continent whose secrets lure him to strange and original explorations. With Fabre, the French entomologist, and Hudson, the British naturalist, the name of William Beebe, the American, is linked as one of a trio of scientists whose enthusiasms and literary abilities have popularized the study of nature and broadened the interest of humanity in "this living world."

His latest feat, results of which are not yet scientifically known, might be called a purely spectacular one, if the name of William Beebe were not attached to its performance. For the first time the human voice was transmitted to the radio world from a half mile below the surface of the sea, off Nonsuch Island, in the Bermudas. This was made possible by the bathysphere, the invention of Otis Barton, serving the same purpose for deep-sea observations that Prof. Piccard's aluminum globe did to the upper strata of the earth's atmosphere. The device is an airtight metal ball with steel sides an inch and a half thick. From this hermetically sealed compartment, the voice of Dr. Beebe was heard from a 2,200-foot level of sea depth and relayed to New York for world-wide transmission. This latest adventure is only in its experimental stages as yet. What discoveries lie ahead in the nature of unknown monsters of the deep are still conjectural—the mysteries of the sea depths have only been superficially touched.

Dr. Beebe's expedition in search of the legendary Sargasso Sea ranks in romantic interest with Jason's expedition in quest of the Golden Fleece. Whether Jason ever found his Golden Fleece and what became of it are questions still in the regions of mythland. Bur Dr. Beebe, at least, rescued the famous sea from the regions of myth and put it on record as being "greatly exaggerated." Time out of mind the Sargasso Sea has furnished material for Munchausen stories of lost ships and dreadful monsters of the deep which were supposed to live in a world of floating seaweed rooted to the floor of the ocean. It was supposed to be the Atlantic's "meadow of death," a whirlpool of tangled sea growths that for ages had sucked ships into its depths and devoured them in its meshes. It was the Atlantic's great "port of missing ships," fabled to have levied its toll in men and vessels from the days of the Phoenicians to the present. Modern ships were supposed to avoid its currents and to fight shy of its seductive flotsam.

POST HASTE.

Reed's attack on the President reads like old times in the Senate, but whom is Jim supporting?

Chinese have set up another "government" in northern Manchuria without any foreign help. Who are the rebels now?

Quite a clever stunt for the Democrats to be rushing to the defense of the gold standard—"that never was in danger, sah!"—whether they know anything about it or not.

Venezuela and Uruguay are the only remaining South American republics without wars or threats of war, but it's best to keep them 5,000 miles apart.

For the third time Speaker Garner is conferring with Eastern Democratic leaders. He may yet get that speech toned down and Easternized so that they will let him deliver it.

Gov. Roosevelt is scheduled to air his views on Federal relief tomorrow night. If he comes out positively for any program, our radio is due for a shock.

Much of the bureaucracy howl is bunk. If all the commissions and bureaus complained of were ruthlessly scrapped it would not save 2 per cent of the Federal budget, while over 10 per cent can be saved by lopping off unjust veteran benefits.

Calvin Coolidge is neither eloquent nor dramatic, but what he says is more than sound—it's sound.

Senator Robinson says "it is utterly untrue that things will be worse if the Democrats win." Against which expression of personal opinion we submit the fact that under Republicans and the Hoover program things are getting better.

If a Democratic President should be elected and the next session of Congress should resume consideration of tariffs, bonus, monetary and pork bills, it will not be necessary to wait for the Seventy-third Congress to see whether things can get worse.

Senator Dave Reed returns from Europe with visions of beer, wine and a sales tax right away quick at the December session of Congress. And you thought Dave was only looking at foreign debts and armaments over there.

"Garner claims both houses." Who has a better right? He is the only one running for both.

THE BIRCH TREE.

Out of a jutting rock, wind blown,
A birch tree braves the world alone.
A crevice in the granite first
Captured the seed; a wave immersed
That tiny embryo. The sun
Warmed it and thus was life begun.

Scant food the passing breezes give
And yet that tree contrives to live!
Cruel the clutch of granite gray,
Yet the brave roots from day to day
Into the great stone deeper creep,
A surer hold on life to keep.

Twisted and bent some limbs appear,
But still undaunted year by year
Those roots in cheerless channels sunk
Courageously support the trunk
And green against the lake and sky,
A birch tree catches every eye!

Man thinks he knows what nature wills,
But much he plants the winter kills,
While far away from human care
And on a cliff by storms swept bare,
Denied the commonest of needs,
A birch tree silently succeeds!

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YEARS ago a young man named Walt Mason drove a buggy into Emporia, Kans., and asked William Allen White for a job. Soon thereafter he was writing a daily jingle in the form of prose for Mr. White's Gazette.

Mr. White saw the possibility of selling these jingles to many newspapers, but he did not at once suggest it. He waited many days to see whether his rhymster could keep the pace. As a matter of history the pace was kept through subsequent years and resulted in fame and fortune.

The point of the story is that nothing is gained by sprinting at the start if you can't keep it up until the race is finished.

As a matter of fact, many a good man makes himself seem a failure by doing his work too well at the start. The world applauds and asks for more of the same kind. If the man has set a record that he never again can equal, the world disregards the fact that his usual work is excellent. It judges him by the standard he established at the beginning; and when he falls beneath it, his day of glory is ended. "He is slipping," says the world. "Another flash in the pan."

The customers have a right to expect the quality shown in the sample. They do expect it, and any good thing seems bad to them if the sample was better.

The new broom that sweeps too clean sets itself an impossible task and thus invites criticism it never would get or deserve if it swept only fairly well.

How shall a wise man treat his bride, his guest and his new neighbor? He shall treat them in the beginning as he expects to treat them at the end of a week, a month or a year?

They will be content with ordinary courtesy if he leads them to expect no more; but if he is too fondly attentive, too lavish and too generous, and thus establishes a precedent he can not follow, his ordinary decency will seem ungenerous neglect when at last he returns to normally civil conduct.

The beggar who might otherwise be grateful for a dime will revile you for giving him a mere dollar if your generosity on previous occasions has given him the right to expect ten.

Socialist Views of Roosevelt.

Minneapolis Journal.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, and William Mahoney, Socialist mayor of St. Paul, recently had a controversy in St. Paul over the latter's support of Franklin D. Roosevelt. This has revealed among other things two interesting, but divergent, Socialist views of the Democratic candidate.

Mr. Thomas has no faith in Gov. Roosevelt's "liberalism." He condemns it as mostly a device for catching votes and wholly lacking in sincerity. He says:

"Franklin Roosevelt got his reputation as a liberal at a less cost than any other man I ever knew. In the twenty years I lived in New York he has consistently given Tammany more of what it wanted than any other man in public office. He gave Tammany far more than Al Smith ever did. He is very well advised politically. That is how he got his reputation for liberalism."

Mayor Mahoney, on the other hand, seems to believe that Gov. Roosevelt is a Socialist at heart. Here is what he says:

"I believe Gov. Roosevelt, though he may not have any well defined program, has the right attitude to effect the changes necessary. I believe in steps to effect a redistribution of wealth, to break up the congestion of wealth, which is responsible for our present condition. I believe Franklin Roosevelt will do that."

"Roosevelt for Hoover."

Los Angeles Times.

A New York town, named after the late "T. R." in 1904, could not wait until the November election to show its sentiments. It came out the other day with a "Roosevelt for Hoover" slogan. You can tell it is a Republican Roosevelt by the way it shows its teeth.

Mr. Garner Breaks Silence.

Kansas City Star.

President Hoover's denunciation of pork barrel legislation in the Democratic House has stirred Mr. Garner into a vigorous denial and an attempt to throw the responsibility back to the administration itself. So Mr. Garner finally has been led to say something in the campaign without actually taking the stump. That is safe enough, as long as Mr. Garner speaks with the advice and consent of his party campaign managers. But, of course, if it takes a speech by the President to draw him out, the Democratic vice presidential nominee will have only another chance or two for a formal statement before November 8. That will be the country's loss in entertainment.

Hoover's Table Talk.

Topeka Capital.

If Herbert could get out on the stump and talk the way he talks with a few friends around a White House table, there would be less popular criticism that the President is cold and formal. Christopher Morley interviewed him the other day in the White House and reports Hoover as saying informally:

"We need something to raise our eyes beyond the immediate horizon. A great nation can't go along just watching its feet. The kind of words I imagine needn't be very complicated. I'd like to see something simple enough for a child to put his hand on his chest and spout it in school on Fridays. I keep looking for it, but I don't see it. Sometimes a great poem does more than legislation."

One of the chief evidences that the country is getting back to political fundamentals is the prevalence of torchlight parades.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Historian Hoppin Says Washington and Standish Families Were Never Connected.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With regard to "Concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. No. 38) submitted in the House of Representatives by the Hon. Sol Bloom, a representative from New York, July 18, 1932, authorizing the acceptance of the gift of a stone tablet bearing the conjoined escutcheons of the Washington and Standish families to be placed in the Capitol (Congressional Record, v. 75, No. 174, p. 13957," and republished by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission in "The United States Congress on George Washington"): No Washington ancestor of President George Washington ever married a woman surnamed Standish; and, so, neither George nor any of his Washington ancestors ever were entitled to use, or did use, the Standish arms in any heraldic connection with their own arms of Washington. Hence, the Standish arms never had any bearing upon George Washington or upon any of his Washington ancestors at any time from the origination in this world of the Washington family, or upon any Washington who ever lived in Virginia.

The quartering of Standish was acquired by and solely belonged to another and entirely distinct branch of the English Washingtons, which branch has had no known descendant in America in the name of Washington. One may ask, therefore, why should such an extraneous foreign object be placed as a public exhibit in the Capitol? C. A. HOPPIN,
Historian of the Washington Family.

Virginian Thinks President Hoover Should Be Reelected —"Don't Swap."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I believe Mr. Hoover should be reelected on the record he has made and is making. No President has ever tried to serve the American people better than Mr. Hoover. No President has had such a hard time since the days of Woodrow Wilson. Almost single-handed Mr. Hoover is leading us out of this world-wide depression. He is a leader of men. He has studied out plans of reconstruction and has succeeded in getting Congress to put them into laws.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the home loan bank act are two examples of the thoughtful planning of Mr. Hoover. In his foreign policy he has also shown himself to be a great President. He probably saved Germany and other countries of Europe from bankruptcy during this awful depression. He is a great lover of peace and is doing all he can to preserve the peace of the world. In making appointments to public office Mr. Hoover has showed himself to be a great judge of men. When a vacancy occurs, he selects the best man available. I think Mr. Hoover has made a noble record and deserves the support of the American people. Let us think over these things. We should not swap horses in the middle of the stream. We should give Mr. Hoover another four years in the White House. M. J. FROGG.

Democrat Resents Selection of Jim Reed to Speak for Party—Tells How He Attacked Wilson.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The leaders of the Democratic party certainly did not add any converts to the Roosevelt banner when they selected former Senator James A. Reed to lead the attack upon President Hoover at Des Moines Monday night. To the contrary, their action will tend to undo much that has already been accomplished. This for the simple reason that as bitter and vitriolic as was the senator's denunciation of Mr. Hoover, it was no more or worse than the senator has repeatedly said of our beloved President Wilson.

At the Chicago convention the Roosevelt leaders did all they could to alienate the followers of Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Now they are continuing this unhappy policy by selecting a Democrat who fought Wilson at every turn of the road to preach the Democratic policy. Such tactics will drive away from the party thousands of Democrats who still believe in the policies of Woodrow Wilson and revere his memory.

How can Democrats be expected to become enthused over the utterances of Senator Reed when they well know that he would say the same things about Woodrow Wilson were he living, and running for office?

As one who has consistently voted the Democratic ticket for more than 30 years, I deeply deplore the fact that Senator Reed was selected to make this reply to President Hoover.
A DEMOCRAT.

Vast Gulf Between Presidency and Governorship of New York.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The truth is the Democratic political writers are doing the Roosevelt cause more harm than good. Of course, Roosevelt has some kind of a case; it may be a poor one, but that is nothing—that can be said about any of the Democrats. The fact is that there was not much for Mr. Roosevelt to do as governor of New York. Al Smith had things in good enough shape to last for two years. Now, it may be that the writers are backward in recommending Franklin D. because they know there's a vast gulf between the governorship of New York and the Presidency of the United States, especially when they consider that half of New York was run by Jimmie Walker.

Take a countryman's advice and remember an old political remark—"It is no time to swap horses when you are crossing the stream."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AN IMAGINARY INTERVIEW WITH JIMMY WALKER.

Q. WELCOME back to the United States, Mr. Walker, and how does it feel to be out of politics?

A. You'll have to ask somebody who is.

Q. Are things any better on the Continent?

A. No; it is still quicker to write than try to get anybody on the telephone.

• • • •

Q. Is is true that Mussolini and the Italian press ignored you?

A. Well, there was only one person there to whom they paid less attention.

Q. Who was that?

A. The king.

• • • •

Q. Did you take any trips by gondola, Mr. Walker?

A. No; it only seemed that way!

• • • •

Q. How is business generally abroad—for instance, has Europe a transportation problem?

A. European railroads admit no problem at all; they sell you a ticket, and from that time the only person who has any problem is the passenger.

Q. What do you think of the Rex?

A. It's a great ship, but I still think the captain owns a real estate development at Gibraltar.

Q. Why did you quit the ship?

A. Because I couldn't get any definite word as to what was wrong down in the engine room, and how long it would take to fix it.

Q. Why did you quit the mayoralty race?

A. For the same reason!

• • • •

Q. WERE you impressed by the Rock of Gibraltar?

A. For the rest of my life every time I'm stalled in traffic I will think of it.

Q. Mr. Walker, what was the point of traveling all across Europe to take a liner that got in three days later than the one you left?

A. I don't like those first voyages; the crowd is so noisy that sometimes I can't get a whole DAY'S sleep.

• • • •

Q. When did you reach a decision not to be a candidate for reelection?

A. It came over me all of a sudden; one minute I was determined to seek vindication; then the ship took another sudden lurch and nothing seemed to matter.

Q. Did you get any message from Tammany's boss?

A. Yes. It read, "Everything terribly unsettled."

Q. Did you reply?

A. Yes. Just a simple radio reading, "Same here."

Q. You feel that John P. O'Brien will make a good mayor?

A. From what I hear he must be remarkable; I understand he sleeps nights voluntarily.

Q. Did you run across Judge Seabury in Europe?

A. No; I never cared much for old ruins.

• • • •

Q. Mr. Walker, now that you are back, do you consider that you are through with politics?

A. Mister, I'll be through with politics when China gets through with rice.

Q. Won't you miss those days at City Hall?

A. What do you mean, "days?"

THE 1932 RULES.

Albie Booth, Red Cagle and other football stars visited President Hoover on the matter of their stumping for the Republican party. Possibly they took time to warn the G. O. P. about the new rules this year, which say that when any part of a runner's body touches the ground, he's through.

LUTHERANS' SCHOOL MERGER OPPOSED

13 Seminaries in Proposal; Biennial Convention to Open Today.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Opposition to a committee report proposing a merger of the thirteen seminaries of the United Luthern Church in America developed today when the document came up for approval at an executive meeting prior to the biennial convention of the church which opens here tomorrow.

Final action on the report was delayed pending further consideration of its recommendations but several changes were made at today's meeting of the church's executive board, the 38 synodical presidents and the church board of education.

One section classifying the existing seminaries was stricken out, a proposal that the seminaries be urged to standardize their school year at 36 weeks was inserted and other minor changes made. The revised report is to be submitted to the convention on Thursday morning.

The study of the seminaries was made by a committee of six appointed at the last biennial convention of the church held at Milwaukee. The Rev. A. Charles R. Keiter, of Lebanon, Pa., is chairman. The other members are the Rev. H. H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh synod, the Rev. R. H. Gerberding, of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the synod of the Northwest; the Rev. J. L. Morgan, of Salisbury, N. C.; the Rev. Charles D. Trexler, of New York, and the Rev. Gould Wickey, of Washington, D. C.

The report of this committee proposed, among other changes, the merger of the existing seminaries into four expanded institutions.

Youngquist Lauds Hoover's Program

Says President's Work in Fight on Slump Has Been Heroic.

President Hoover's program for relief from the depression is the most gigantic and far-sighted ever adopted by a government, Assistant Attorney General G. Aaron Youngquist told a gathering of Republicans at the National Capital Republican Club on Scott Circle last night.

"Bad as conditions may have been I shudder to think how much worse they might have been if the Nation had not had Herbert Hoover in the White House," Mr. Youngquist said. "Heretofore, in times of business and economic depression the Government has done nothing but has left the task to private business. President Hoover's has been the most gigantic reconstruction program ever advanced. The character of the work of this administration has been heroic."

As evidence of the effectiveness of the relief program, Mr. Youngquist cited loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to banks. Of the 20,000 banks in the Nation, 5,000 had received loans, he said, and bank failures had been reduced from an average of ten a day in the six months preceding the corporation to three a day.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Richmond, Va., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Ernest Iselin, of New York, was elected a director of the Southern Railway Co. at the annual meeting today, succeeding his father, Adrian Iselin, who declined reelection after 34 years of service as a member of the board.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Sheriff Thomas J. Swafford, of Bledsoe County, Tenn., died in a hospital here today, the victim of an ambuscade at Pikeville Sunday. His assailants hid behind a billboard and riddled him with buckshot as he sat in a parked automobile. His wife was wounded slightly. His slayers escaped.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Questioned today regarding rumors she was expected to marry again for the fourth time, Texas Guinan said, "Yes, I am going to try it again." The night club and vaudeville entertainer refused to give the name of the prospective bridegroom, but said she expected to be married in about two weeks, after she completes a vaudeville tour.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Frank McErlane, inventor of the gang-death ride and known as "Chicago's cruellst gangster," was buried today in an ornate and expensive casket which his former partner, "Polack Joe" Saltis, helped to carry. Nine automobiles were in the funeral procession, five carrying flowers. The ceremonies were private at the gang leader's home and attempts were made to keep secret his last resting place, Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

Bryan, Ohio, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Lewis H. Robb, former treasurer of Williams County, and his deputy, Prather Hitt, pleaded guilty today to embezzling county funds and were sentenced to 1 to 21 years in the Ohio Penitentiary and fined $25,400 each. Execution of sentence was postponed for ten days to give them time to arrange their private affairs.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The Salem News says today it has learned an apparent attempt was made last Friday night to kidnap the two children of Maxwell Foster, prominent Boston attorney, from the Foster home in Topsfield. A nurse maid succeeded in bolting a door against an intruder a few minutes after the man had abandoned a ladder which had been placed against the nursery window where the children were sleeping, the News said.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A son was born early yesterday to Dr. and Mrs. William Larimer Mellon, jr., it was learned today. Both mother and baby are in good health. The baby is a grandson of W. L. Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

THE animal called man is less equipped by nature to battle the elements than any other animal. But life ever makes compromises and offers compensations! Were you to be given your choice between a nice, warm, furry skin and the mentality you now have, who would choose the former save a neurotic or an imbecile.

And yet there are those who have a misdirected emotional pity for the animals we must sacrifice in order to enable the human race to survive even one winter! Turning the light of reasoning and intelligence upon such ideas makes it perfectly possible for me to write about this season's furs—and enjoy it. The most important living thing in the world is woman, and if a couple of thousand rabbits must die to enable her to survive, allors, they must!

The inexpensive or cheap fur pelts are smart. The cheaper ones are as smart, but they do not wear as well; that is, all of them. One hears on all sides that the cheaper furs are out of style, that the cheaper furs are not out of style, that they will never go out of style, that they have never been stylish, &c., ad infinitum.

All these statements are correct! Fut a new idea in furs has struck Miladi, and it looks as though she would cling to this idea for several winters. It is simply this—l'elegante has one very expensive fur coat (or more) and several of the less expensive ones. Depending, of course, upon the climate in her particular part of the world! Then she indulges her flare for furs in abundance—and variety, with those very much fur-trimmed coats that seem to be either cloth coats fur trimmed or fur coats cloth trimmed.

And let who may bemoan the rats and rabbits!

No more this Christmas than ever, but more practical this year, perhaps, is the handmade gifts. Still, people with all the money in the world know about the prices they find on handmade gifts! And here you can make the most expensive looking and elegant gift that a millionaire could buy for just spending a few dollars—and sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that is here this week which tells you how to go about it. 'Tis a lampshade made of real parchment that we tell you how to make this time, and, oh, how lovely they are! You simply should see one first, in an art store (and price 'em) to appreciate this. And once you know how to make them you can have all that you wish for your own home or for gifts for people who really appreciate such things. Send for the leaflet and just see.

* * * *

A tailleur can be as dressy as a frock—and Bernard et Cie. of Paris, have designed one which I have sketched for you today.

'Tis of cheviotte beige, trimmed lavishly with stitching and with a scarf collar of brown galyac. Isn't it smart? I can just see you in a dressy tailleur like this!

* * * *

What would you like me to tell you how to make for Christmas gifts? Send me a little note and ask—that's all * * * we will do our very best to find out for you exactly how to make whatever you wish.

* * * *

And, oh, yes, some of the new evening slippers illustrated—one in brocade and the other in brilliantly colored flat crepe. Nice?

Au revoir!

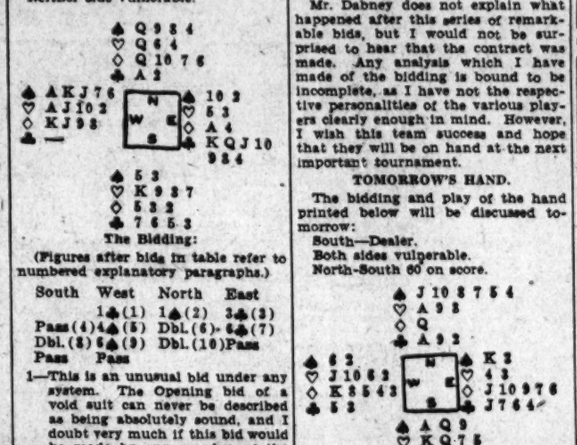
THE SINCEREST FLATTERY.

CHARLES DABNEY, of Louisville, Ky., writes that he and his colleagues have formed a colored team of four and that they call themselves the Black Four Horsemen. It is unfortunate that the original team of the Four Horsemen is disbanded at the present time, but perhaps their fame will live on in the persons of this new combination. Mr. Dabney states that he and his partner use the "One over One" variation of the Approach-Forcing System and that their partners use the straight Approach-Forcing method.

In the following hand he does not state which partnership is playing East and West, and I think that my readers will agree with me that it is a little difficult to discover that from the bidding:

West-Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
	1♣(1)	1♠(2)	3♣(3)
Pass(4)	4♠(5)	Dbl.(6)	6♣(7)
Dbl.(8)	6♠(9)	Dbl.(10)	Pass
Pass	Pass

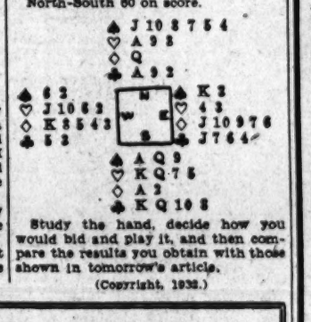
1—This is an unusual bid under any system. The Opening bid of a void suit can never be described as being absolutely sound, and I doubt very much if this bid would be made by any member of the original "Four Horsemen."
2—Somewhat shaded, but apparently North and South are playing the "Never Pass System."
3—Rather conservative — somewhat surprisingly so, in view of the previous bidding.
4—Also surprisingly conservative.
5—Having erected a somewhat unfirm foundation by his first bid, West decides that his best policy now is to bid the suit previously mentioned by the opponents. Note that he does not bid three spades, but leaps immediately to the game.
6—Not very much comment necessary here.
7—It would be interesting to know at this point whether East suspected that his partner was void in clubs. Admitting that it makes little difference to East, I am still curious to know this.
8—Having passed once, South must take some action with his King.
9—Not the best of bids under the Approach-Forcing System. However, West apparently does not feel that his partner can be trusted.
10—The best bid so far.

Mr. Dabney does not explain what happened after this series of remarkable bids, but I would not be surprised to hear that the contract was made. Any analysis which I have made of the bidding is bound to be incomplete, as I have not the respective personalities of the various players clearly enough in mind. However, I wish this team success and hope that they will be on hand at the next important tournament.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 60 on score.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

BAKED INDIAN PUDDING.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

If you have never tried this New England combination for a dinner dessert, by all means serve it one of these brisk, cool, fall days. It will undoubtedly become a regular family favorite.

The flavor of the yellow cornmeal, seasoned with ginger and molasses, and slowly baked in milk, is delicious in itself. But with vanilla ice cream for a sauce on the hot pudding it becomes an extra special dish for high days and holidays. Or if you want a more economical dessert serve the pudding, hot or cold, with plain cream or top milk. Here is the recipe:

Baked Indian Pudding.

1 quart milk
⅓ cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses
¼ to 1 teaspoon ginger

Cook the milk, cornmeal and salt in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the molasses and ginger, pour into a greased baking dish, and bake in a very moderate oven (about 300 degrees F.) for two hours. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream or chill and serve with cream or top milk.

Mrs. Downey Appointed Restaurant Director

Mrs. Clara May Downey, of Olney, Md., who is the proprietor of the Olney Inn, well-known Maryland tea room, was appointed to the board of directors of the National Restaurant Association at its annual convention held at St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. Downey is the third woman to hold a position on the board.

A flat tire is said by Mrs. Downey to have started her on her tea room career. In 1926 she was forced to stop one afternoon in front of the rambling old farmhouse which she later converted into the well-known inn.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

AVOIDING COLDS.

NO belief is more general nor better grounded in years than the one that if a man pampers himself he will be subject to colds and pneumonia, and, as a part of the same, a man can harden himself against colds by judicious exposure.

Seneca wrote, soon after the death of Christ, "The man who has always had glazed windows to shield him from a draft, whose feet have been kept warm by hot applications renewed from time to time, whose dining halls have been tempered by hot air passing beneath the floor and circulating around the walls—this man will run great risk if he is brushed by a gentle breeze."

And now the iconoclastic students threaten to knock all that into a cocked hat. At Johns Hopkins University studies of the common cold have been carried on for several years. This investigation may run for some time yet, for the subject is most important, and while there is a mass of speculation and many men have theories, there is almost no real knowledge.

A few reports of this study are making their appearance in the medical literature. A group of nearly 300 adults, mostly medical students, are being observed. One report tells of the number of colds and their severity suffered by this body of persons during a period of 35 weeks—the fall, winter and spring season. Some of them slept in rooms with the windows widely opened, while others slept where the ventilation was not good. Some spent hours in exercising in the open air, both winter and summer. Some got very little outdoor exercise, either in summer or winter. These groups were compared. The basis of comparison was the number of colds each suffered from during the 35 weeks, and the severity of them.

A cold was rated as severe if it put the man to bed and caused him to have fever and general aching, and if it lasted ten days or longer. Separate observations were made as to whether the sick man had coryza, cough or sore throat, or several of these in combination.

The experiment seemed to prove that Mr. Seneca was talking through his hat. The people who disobeyed the laws of health, as we call them—at least those that related to fresh air, exposure to cold, hardening, exercising in the open air had no more colds than did the other fellows. Nor were there colds any more severe.

The observations did seem to show that the colds which caused sore throat differed from the others. The men who hardened themselves appeared to have fewer sore throats. And that seemed to be all the support Seneca got from the observations.

The man who said he always learned the rules of health in order that he might be sure to break them gets at least a dog fall from Mr. Seneca.

DIZZINESS.

G. D. writes: What is the cause and remedy for dizzy spells which I get when I lie down and just as I get up? Everything seems to go round for a few minutes.

REPLY.

Dizziness is a symptom of several disorders and has different causes. The remedy depends on the cause. It may be due to severe anemia, organic heart disease, high blood pressure, disease of the middle ear, eye-strain, constipation, nervousness and some other disorders.

EXPOSURE TO SUN'S RAYS.

A. H. R. writes: 1. How long should one who is elderly take direct exposure to the sun's rays?

2. Is it your opinion that sun baths advance senility?

REPLY.

1. At this season of the year they are not needed. They are in the late winter. There is little danger of excessively long exposure in that season.

2. Yes.

WHAT HERPES IS.

H. K. writes: 1. What is herpes?

2. Is it hereditary?

3. Has chronic heart trouble any relation to it?

4. Is it a disgrace to have such an ailment?

REPLY.

1. When the eruption occurs on the chest it is called shingles. When on the lips, fever blisters or cold sores.

2. No.

3. No.

4. No.

HUNT FOR CAUSE.

Miss E. M. N. writes: Since I was a young girl I have been suffering from pains in my arms, which doctors said were growing pains. I am 21 now and have not grown for several years. I still have acute attacks, usually in the morning or evening. It seems to me that my muscles are knotted, for it is with much effort and pain that I move my arms up and down.

REPLY.

You probably have neuritis or arthritis, or the two in association. Growing pains is merely a street name for arthritis in children. Try to find just what your trouble is and what causes it. A frequent cause is infected tonsils.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF October 12 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., from noon to 1 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 11 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and again from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

If you have new plans or ideas to put before your superiors, new contacts to make, or a board of directors to influence, October 12 is the day to see the attainment of that goal. Forces are at work which will tend to induce in people a most receptive frame of mind. Hit the iron while it's hot and today's efforts will bring tomorrow's results.

Children born on October 12 will tend to be nervous and excitable. They will be inclined to fits of temper, quickly gotten over with. They will be found to be adventurous and always around where there is some excitement. If the child is a girl she will probably be the neighborhood's tomboy. They are always up to some generally harmless prank. They love to tease.

If October 12 is your birthday, you are probably an extremely active person possessed of a superabundance of nervous energy. You are constantly on the go, and in business are never satisfied unless you have many irons in the fire. You have a personality that draws people to you. You have to be at the head of everything you are connected with, and you are constantly trying to embark upon new ventures that will bring more people under your supervision. You love to give orders and to see your commands carried out. You often rub people the wrong way, but you are sufficiently alert to notice that immediately, and to talk and kid them out of any annoyance they may feel. Your sense of humor often saves you on these occasions. Fortunately you can at times laugh at yourself, which in a great measure keeps you from taking yourself too seriously.

If you are a woman, you are most probably not the home-loving type. If you can, you have some one to run your house and you merely supervise it. You are a good mother, strict, and no doubt frightfully ambitious for your offspring. You are a leader of your social group, and love to be in the midst of the social swirl. You are not a jealous person yourself, but you stir up jealousy in others. Both men and women are attractive to the opposite sex, and are inclined to be fickle.

Successful people born on October 12:

Alexander T. Stewart, merchant.
Lyman Trumbull, senator.
George W. Cable, author.
Helena Modjeska, Polish-American actress.
Alvina Valleria, singer.
William Luther Sibert, general, U. S. A.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

NOT so many years ago the corset industry suffered a serious setback. And everywhere women said: "It's gone—with the bicycle and the bustle." Then, unsuspectingly, but slowly and surely it made a comeback. And now it is more definitely the accepted thing than ever.

Of course, it's very different from the strait-jacket, confining, waist-pinching, breathtaking affair that grandma wore. Steels are out entirely, or set where they will do the least damage. Materials are very different, too. Feathery in weight. Gossamer thin, yet they wear like the proverbial iron. And how they launder. But, then, they're built for washing and wear.

The Cut Is Important.

"Built" is just what they are. Built, by piece, seam by seam. The cut is important. Practically all undergarments are now cut on the bias, in dozens of different ways to fit various figures. And how they fit! And how helpful they are in making the top things, the dress or gown, fit beautifully.

A smooth undergarment can do wonders in transforming a figure that is far from a flowing, eye-pleasing one. Not that I am advocating the undergarment as the sole means of figure flaw correction, because diet and exercise are the best combination to keep the bulges from settling and the bones from showing. But, in the meantime, and in between times, the undergarment will help.

Such a Variety.

With such a variety to choose from, every woman should make the purchase of an undergarment a careful, individual study. Buy one as carefully as you do your most expensive evening dress, because that dress will fit doubly beautifully on the proper foundation. Ranging from the tiny garter belt to the intricately cut duosets and all-in-ones, undergarments answer every need of every figure. No need to buy blind. Particularly with competent corsetieres in all the finer department stores to help you study and measure your figure and to recommend the type of garment that will make you look better proportioned and poised.

I hope I have impressed you with the importance of choosing a proper undergarment. This applies to all your underthings. Brief, bias and built to avoid bunching, sagging or bulging. Here you have the story of "preferred stocks" in underthings. They should fall so perfectly to the lines of the figure that you hardly know you have any on.

Fight Excess FAT

In the Right Way

Remember that modern science has discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of a certain factor in the blood. Now doctors everywhere, in treating obesity, prescribe that lacking factor. No need to tell you how this has changed conditions. Excess fat, in late years, has been disappearing fast. And starvation diet has not been the reason.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on that lacking factor. A famous medical laboratory prepares them. A book in each box gives the formula and explains results. People have used them for 25 years—millions of boxes of them. So people all about you now know the results.

Go do what they did and what modern doctors do. Combat the cause. Ask your druggist for a box of Marmola, and read the book. Try the real way to reduction, and watch the delightful results.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF W. & J. SUICIDE

Dr. Baker served for a decade as president of Washington and Jefferson. He resigned last year following a five-day strike of students, who protested against the dismissal of three professors and the threatened expulsion of two football players for fighting in a hotel.

He came to Pittsburgh and lived a quiet life, but his friends said he was depressed and melancholy—a defeated, broken man.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Grace Little, of Washington. Their only son, Edward, served in the Air Service in the World War and was killed in France.

Sea Scout Movement's Importance Is Stressed

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT was a staggering task that confronted Owen Davis and his son Donald when they undertook to prune the widespreading and full-flowered tree of Mrs. Pearl S. Buck's "The Good Earth" down to a single hardy stalk. The more they deleted and condensed, the fewer the tools of their trade with which they had to work. That is to say, by eliminating whole movements of the narrative, banishing characters to which Mrs. Buck devoted extensive consideration and compressing a tale of far-flung ramifications into a simple and direct love story—with certain modifications—the authors of the stage version, perforce, limited their own field of contrasts, conflicts and clashes of personality.

For instance, the book, in addition to drought and famine, dealt at some length and to definite purpose with flood, pestilence, revolution, banditry, concubinage, disease, the difficulties of raising sons of divergent tastes and inclinations, the perils of rearing daughters among a covetous and predatory aristocracy—in fact, all of the problems, harassments and major and minor worries that can impress themselves upon a house within the span of a single generation. The greater part of all this, by the very nature of the medium, has to be omitted from the acting version of the work.

It is, therefore, greatly to the credit of Owen and Donald Davis that from this embarrassment of riches they were able to extract so interesting and so compact a drama as is on view this week in the National Theater.

What was referred to as Philip Moeller's "flawless direction" in the enthusiasm of a midnight appraisal written against the steady encroachment of a prodding and premature deadline, upon second thought seems to have one conspicuous defect. In the movement of his puppets Mr. Moeller is above reproach, but to the passage of time he apparently is oblivious.

The span of Mrs. Buck's novel was from an approximate age of 20 to the deaths of O-Lan and Wang Lung at some 65 or 70 years, or so. In the play the episodes are neither dated nor tagged by years, but the action is of sufficient scope to permit the eldest son of Wang Lung and his woman to reach marriageable age and take wife at his mother's deathbed. Of this lapse of years only Mme. Nazimova seems to take account in her treatment of her character of O-Lan. She ages perceptibly as the story progresses, but not Earl Larimore, as Wang Lung, or, to any appreciable degree Henry Travers, as his father, the "old one."

Clyde Franklin, in the role of Ching, neighbor of Wang Lung, who eventually becomes his overseer, and Homer Barton, as the Gatekeeper at the Great House, for the virtue of growing old convincingly and other excellences should, of course, have been singled out for particular acclaim in our earlier survey, save for the early-morning traffic congestion on a single-track mind.

The motion picture rights to "The Good Earth," I believe, have been disposed of to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who plan to film the play practically in its entirety in China. This is an admirable project, although the story is Chinese purely by the accident of Mrs. Buck's long residence among the Celestials. It is of such universal content and verity that it might quite as well have been laid in Germany, Egypt, Western Europe, Northern Minnesota or anywhere else on this terrestrial footstool!

The all-embracing power of the camera will make possible more realistic revolutionary scenes than characterize the stage play, although these, I understand, suffer at the moment from 30 supernumeraries having been dropped from the Theater Guild Acting Company since it opened in Philadelphia a month ago.

Among yesterday's considerable list of callers in the palatial suite occupied by the dramatic department the ones that set the fifth floor all a-twitter were the charming and vocal Miss Gracie Barrie, who has shattered all precedent by playing a three-week engagement at the Earle, Miss Maxine Doyle, the mellifluous mistress of ceremonies at that strangely favored temple of the arts, doubtless on her way back from the Mayflower, both under the expansive guardianship of Master Bill Ewing, of the Warner Brothers publicity forces.

As I listened to Miss Barrie's eager enthusiasms over the cordiality and warmth of Washington audiences, I would have sworn it was Ginger Rogers, so close is the resemblance. It is too bad you can't get a better view of Miss Barrie's big, Irish blue eyes across that footlight barrier!

The more I think of it, the less I wonder that she changed her billing from "Gracie Rogers" to "Gracie Barrie" to avoid what must otherwise have been an inevitable confusion of identities.

Arthur J. Beckhard has at last put into rehearsal the play with which he will seek to follow up the triumphant success of his first production, "Another Language," which opened here in the Belasco Theater last April, is now running in its sixth month in New York, and is being given by another compnay in its fifth week out in Chicago.

The new Beckhard play is called "Carry Nation," and is based on the life of the famous prohibition agitator of the turn of the century, who so effectivley hacked her way to fame while hacking up saloons with her little hatchet. It is written by Frank McGrath, who, by the way, insists that the title must always be spelled "Carry" and never "Carrie," and after a week's engagement in Baltimore will probably be presented in New York on October 24.

I seem to recall that Producer Beckhard was slightly irritated by what he construed to be Washington's critical indifference to his opus when it opened last April 18, the same night the National Theater Players inaugurated their eighth spring and summer season. Surely, Mr. Beckhard, that is not the reason Baltimore is getting "Carry Nation?" Or is it?

Today will be the day, in case it had slipped your mind, that "The Phantom of Crestwood" will be by way of opening its local engagement at RKO-Keith's, two days off schedule and everything.

Reverting momentarily to "The Good Earth," there ought to be a swell last line about this being a week when you can't afford to pass the Buck, or something, but you will have to figure it out for yourself.

Me, I've got to worry about what might have happened if Columbus hadn't done what he did 440 years ago today!

THE KID SHORTSTOP

The Time—July, 1928.

Footsteps clatter up the stairway and the door is flung open, admitting five assorted types of newspapermen, baseball writers of the Washington dailies.

FIRST NEWSPAPERMAN—What's new, Griff?

GRIFFITH—No news to report, boys. If things were any duller around here I'd take up whittlin'. Joe Engel picked up a kid shortstop in Kansas City. He'll report at the end of the season.

SECOND NEWSPAPERMAN—What's his name, Griff?

GRIFFITH—His name? Lemme see. By golly, I dunno. I got it right on the tip of my tongue, too. But he's just a kid and won't report 'til the end of the season. That home run of Goslin's yesterday was the hardest hit ball I ever saw go out of this park.

FIRST NEWSPAPERMAN—Harder hit than the one you said was the hardest hit last week? Come on guys, he's just forgetting himself again."

The Time—Two weeks later.

Mr. Griffith is comfortably ensconced in his sway-backed desk chair. Swirling clouds of the inevitable cigar smoke slowly make their way to the ceiling. About him in a haphazard semicircle, the baseball correspondents are seated. Outside the crowd is filing through the turnstiles.

FIRST NEWSPAPERMAN—Whaddaya know today, Griff?

GRIFFITH—It's dull. I tell you. With a little better breaks we'd be in the first division. We belong up there. We'll get going soon. There's nothing new. Here, look at this.

GRIFFITH—This guy Engel wired me that that kid shortstop will report tomorrow. I wonder what his idea is? Why should I be bothered with the kid in midseason? We've got Bobby Reeves, Jack Hayes and Grant Gillis out there now. The heat must be getting Engel. He wrote me that he's had the kid out on a scouting tour with him for a week. Imagine that?

SECOND NEWSPAPERMAN—A few more pitchers and a few less shortstops would do this club a lot of good, Griff. So would a good right-handed hitting outfielder. Well, I'm official scorer today. So long, Griff.

All say "So long" and make their exit.

SCENE THREE.

The place—Same.

The time—Four years later, October 8, 1932.

Mr. Griffith is puffing with unusual vigor on the inevitable stogie. He is pacing the space behind

Banovic Wins As Fans Boo Dull Bout

Irving Finishes Well to Earn Draw in Raymond Tilt.

By DAVE HERMAN.

The Nazareth, Pa., lad made such a miserable showing against "Bingo" Joe Banovic last night in the main ten-round bout on the program that officials have decided to keep him out of their arena. Never again will he fight at Portner's, they declared, following the Banovic's victory.

Crowd Starts Booing In Second.

How dull it was is best judged by the response from a crowd of close to 1,000. The fans were kind enough to endure the first round, but the second is a different story. Here they booed and booed and booed. There was more booing in the third. The fourth brought forth the proverbial Bronx cheer and an outburst of handclaps that serenaded the boxers throughout the round. Abe Martin threatened to issue an edict in the sixth that would have stopped the bout, but it was never formally sent out. Several hundred fans left long before it ended. It was the worst booing ever given a match in Portner's history. But, it was all Weiss' fault.

Henry Irving, the ring giant whose peculiar ring tactics have won him the sobriquet of "Popeye," earned a draw with Joey Raymond, of Baltimore in the eight-round semiwindup. A beaten man after the third, Irving showed comeback powers in the seventh and eighth of a bout that saw two men trade punches with heads bowed most of the time. Irving's long arm reached up and caught Raymond a dandy in the sixth that almost had him on queer street.

Wright Wins Debut From Marini.

Congressional Lists Ring Bouts Tomorrow

Mickey O'Connor, former Columbia University fighter, will meet Benny Horn, amateur middleweight champion of the Middle Atlantic States, in the feature match on the first Congressional Country Club boxing program of the season, to be held tomorrow night at the club for members and their guests.

Other bouts bring together Al Ditterman and "Peanut" Keefer; Ray Palmer and Bobby Carson; Dallas Palmer and Marty Wibel, Stanford Cartier and Tom Riley; Herb Vermillion and Ray Parks and Lee Crandall and Joe Mayfield. Keefer, Carson, Wibel, Riley, Parks and Mayfield fight under the colors of the Baltimore Y. M. C. A.

Rough Mat Bouts On Card Tomorrow

All too cagey to promote wrestling matches between matmen of the slow and ponderous type of Strangler Lewis and Jack Sherry, Prof. Joe Turner will stage another of his weekly affairs at the Auditorium tomorrow night with a crew of reformed prize fighters, football players and circus strong men distributing loud agony.

Heading the bill is a slugfest scheduled between Rudy Dusek and George Vassell, in which George Vassell will probably be bumped on the chin, or something, for bumping Dusek on the chin and beating him some weeks back.

Chief White Feather, the pugnacious Indian grandpappa who was Max Schmeling's sparring partner last year, meets Abe Coleman in the feature match of the preliminaries. Milo Steinborn, who stoops to everything but wrestling in the ring, and who used to be a circus strong man, meets Ernie Dusek, another limb of the sturdy Dusek family tree.

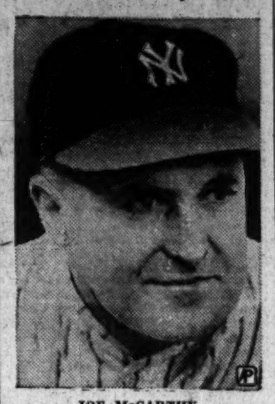
Yankees Sign McCarthy For 3 Years at $100,000

Only Pilot to Win Flag in Both Leagues Is Rewarded

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the square-jawed Buffalo Irishman who piloted the New York Yankees back to world championship baseball heights in a two-year term as manager, today received his reward in the form of a new three-year contract at a substantial increase in salary.

No other details were divulged after a short and highly agreeable conference between McCarthy and the Yankee owner, Col. Jacob Ruppert, but it was understood the figures written into the new contract called for at least $100,000 for the three-year period.



JOE McCARTHY.

Another Step Forward For McCarthy.

It marked a fresh step forward in the unusual career of "Marse Joe," who never played a game of big league baseball in his life, but now holds the distinction of being the only pilot ever to manage pennant winners in both the American and National Leagues. Two years after being summarily removed as manager of the Chicago Cubs, McCarthy not only has squared accounts with his old employers, but now has established himself firmly in the driver's seat of the richest outfit in baseball.

There was no ceremony about McCarthy's signing a new contract. He concluded negotiations quickly with Col. Ruppert at the latter's brewery office, then subjected himself to cross-examination at the club headquarters.

McCarthy was happy enough about it, in receiving congratulations after being accorded a signal demonstration of confidence by his employer, but he did not permit this to sway him from his customary taciturnity. He denied he had any trades or alterations in the Yankee machine in mind and parried all questions as to what he contemplated or expected for 1933. The most he would admit was that "it would be tough staying on top," but he added quickly: "It always is. The fans like to ride the champions."

Ruth to Continue Big Factor, Says Pilot.

Marse Joe said he expected Babe Ruth to continue to be a big factor in the Yankee offense, pointing out that to his knowledge there had been talk of the Bambino being "through" for the past ten years. He praised the young Yankee pitchers, but remarked that Herb Pennock's relief work was one of the big features of the world series. As to the outstanding play in the championship, McCarthy considered Ben Chapman's catch off Herman in the first game outstanding, but he also praised the work of Shortstop Frankie Crosetti in the final game at Chicago.

McCarthy has had an unusual baseball career, marked by consistent success as a manager after being no better than a fair minor league infielder. He piloted the Louisville club of the American Association from 1919 to 1926, when the Cubs engaged him. Within four years he built up a pennant winner but lost the world series to Connie Mack's Athletics.

Subsequently, in 1930, discord developed in the Chicago organization and toward the end of the season Joe was replaced by Rogers Hornsby. Meanwhile his record had so impressed Col. Ruppert, casting about for a successor to Miller Huggins, that he signed McCarthy to a two-year contract. Joe took over the management from Bob Shawkey, who led the Yankees in 1930. He quickly readjusted the machine, finished a strong second in 1931 and won the pennant in a common gallop this year from the faltering As.

First Manager Berth in '13 At Wilkes-Barre.

"Marse Joe," a nickname he acquired in Kentucky, was born in Germantown, Pa., 44 years ago. As a boy he played baseball near the home of William Wrigley, jr., who later hired him as manager of the Cubs. McCarthy's first job as a manager was with Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in 1913, at the age of only 26. He won two pennants with Louisville before going to Chicago.

SENIOR GOLF CHAMPION LEADING

Ridsdale Has 84 Card at Woodmont in D. C. Title Play.

PERCIVAL S. RIDSDALE, of Chevy Chase, made a flying start in defense of his District senior golf championship yesterday at the Woodmont Country Club by pacing a field of sixteen contestants with an 84 for the first half of the 36-hole competition.

Battling against a blustery wind that forced veteran golfers who ordinarily shoot in the 80s to skyrocket their scores to the 90 class, Ridsdale shot the first nine in 44 strokes, and negotiated the incoming journey in even better fashion for a 40. Par for the course is 69.

Final Round on Tap Today.

Two other seniors were four strokes to the rear of him. They were H. S. Pope, of Indian Spring, with 43—45—88, and J. E. Raines, of Columbia, with 43—45—88. The only other golfer in the flock to crack 90 was Dr. Bruce L. Taylor, of Congressional, who went around in 46—43 for an 89.

OUTGOING NINE.

Par ..... 4 4 4 4 3 5 4 3 4—35
Ridsdale ..... 5 5 5 5 4 7 4 4 5—44

PITT IS SEEN AS CLASS OF EAST

Game Against Army Saturday to Be Real Test.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—There is a strong feeling around these parts that if the East is to have a team of high football ranking this year, Pittsburgh must provide it.

To come right down to it, there isn't much fact on which to base this belief. The season is barely two weeks old and several clubs, notably Army, Columbia, Fordham and Harvard, have done just as well as the Panthers from the Smoky City. But the feeling exists just the same.

Come sundown next Saturday, however, and something will be known about this Pitt club. For the Panthers are scheduled to take on Army at the plains, as the military reservation high on the Hudson is known.

Pitt to Start Game As Favorite.

Pitt will start the game favorite, but that means little. Army was favored to blast the Panthers last year, and you remember what happened. Battled to a standstill on the ground, Pittsburgh took to the air and came through with a 26-to-0 win. The Panthers threw eighteen forward passes in that game, and four of the ten completed went for touchdowns.

This year's game may well settle the little matter of Eastern supremacy. A glance at the schedules shows that of all the Eastern schools, Army and Pittsburgh are the only two outfits with really representative bookings. Even if Columbia and Harvard did go through the year undefeated, the weakness of the schedules would detract from their record.

Army and Pitt, however, have schedules that bristle with rugged foes. Army meets Harvard, Pitt and Notre Dame among others. Pitt's ten-game schedule calls for meeting with Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Penn and Carnegie Tech.

Edge Taken off Syracuse-Methodist Game.

Unexpected developments came mighty year to spoiling an intersectional battle the East had anticipated with much enjoyment. We mean the battle between Syracuse and Southern Methodist at Syracuse next Saturday. Last week Syracuse dropped a decision to Ohio Wesleyan and the wild men from Texas took a licking from Rice. These defeats took much of the edge off their coming battle.

The biggest disappointment in this section to date has been Yale. Rated in the early fall as the finest club along the Atlantic seaboard, the Elis have failed to show a single spark of greatness. The ties with Bates and Chicago set something of record for the Blue. Even the oldest New Haven inhabitant can't remember when a Yale Team failed to score a victory in at least one of the two opening games.

C. U. Combats Chattanooga Passes

Banner Crowd Seen; Leydorf May Prove Surprise Threat.

THE largest crowd in Catholic University's home football history, or at least since C. U. played the 1927 George Washington "Iron Men" is expected to crowd into Brookland Stadium Saturday to witness the Cardinals open their home season against an unsung but potent University of Chattanooga eleven.

The Brookland stadium holds about 15,000 but has never been much more than half filled. The ticket requests have been large enough to install another agency at a downtown sporting store, the first time in recent years that tickets have been sold anywhere but at the school.

Leydorf Brilliant in Tennessee.

Word seeped out of Chattanooga yesterday that Coach "Scrappy" Moore is keeping an ace up his sleeve in the person of Bill Leydorf, half back, who has not appeared in the last two games but who sparkled against Tennessee in the opening game of the season, when Chattanooga held the great Vols to 12-0. Leydorf is expected to prove an able running mate for "Tubby" Haswell, the team's recognized triple-threat man.

Catholic University yesterday went through another long and tiring drill, much of which was given over to breaking up the highly touted passing system which Chattanooga utilizes. Haswell is the hub of the Moccasins' passing attack with Charlie White, stellar end, the ablest receiver. White was given honorable All-American mention last season.

The stiff tussel last Friday in which the Catholic University varsity only beat the freshmen by 2-0 has had a good influence on the team, Coach Dutch Bergman believes. It has taken a lot of native cockiness out of the squad, most of which was generated when Catholic University beat City College of New York 47-0.

Critics rate Catholic University and Chattanooga even, and anticipate a close, exciting battle, marked by passes galore and a battle of swift feet between Tom Whelan, of Catholic University, and either Haswell or Leydorf.

Canzoneri-Petrolle Due to Fight Tonight

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Another attempt will be made tomorrow night to bring Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Frankie Petrolle together at Ebbets Field in the ten-round feature of the closing show of the outdoor boxing season here.

Riddled by substitutions, finally postponed a week because of rain, the charity card promoted by Humbert Fugazy also offers Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized in New York as light heavyweight champion, against Jack Redman, Negro light heavyweight, from South Bend, Ind., in a ten-round semifinal.

Travis Jackson Faces Operation Tomorrow

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—An attempt to remedy knee trouble that has been bothersome all season will be made Thursday when Travis Jackson, New York Giants' shortstop, undergoes an operation.

When Bill Terry, Giant manager, took his star shortfielder to doctors for an examination they decided to operate on the right knee to repair a torn cartilage and to fix up a chipped bone in the left knee.

Terry today said the deal bringing Pitcher Ray Starr and Catcher Gus Mancuso from the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Giant players was one of several deals to rebuild the Giants for next year.

OLD LINE ACE FACES STAR DUKE BACK

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 11.—Two human battering rams, Ray Poppelman, of Maryland, and Bob Cox, of Duke, will run up against each other here Saturday when Duke entertains Maryland in one of the features of Southern Conference football. It will be home-coming day at Duke, and precautions are being taken to keep Maryland from ruining it—as V. P. I. ruined Maryland's day last week.

Cox, a sophomore, appears to be the answer to Coach Wallace Wade's prayer for players of the brawn he once had at Alabama. The big full back has averaged 5 yards a crack in 40 tries this year from scrimmage. Poppelman's great leg drive, which was largely responsible for Maryland's 1931 showing, is similar to Cox's. Both are plungers of the first water and their meeting Saturday is bad news for both lines.

Duke Emphasizing Pass Defense.

One of the things Duke is stressing this week is a forward pass defense. Assistant Coach Eddie Cameron scouted Maryland last week and brought back news that the Maryland backs handle the ball like an expert basket ball squad. Particularly is Duke prepping for Dick Nelson, one of the leading forward-pass experts of the Southern Conference.

Duke can do some passing of its own now that Nick Laney is back from the injured list. Laney's accurate right arm was sadly missed in the Auburn game.

REBELS SEEKING GAMES.

CENTENNIALS MEET.

The Centennial football team will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at North Capitol and New York avenue. Colella, Cash, Finnegan and Juliano are requested to report along with the other members of the squad. The Centennials handed the Stantons a 13-0 defeat in their opening game Sunday.

G. W. DELAYS CATAWBA GAME

Carolina Eleven Will Be Met Saturday. Night Here.

THE George Washington University-Catawba football game has been postponed until Saturday night, it was announced yesterday. The game, originally scheduled for Friday night, was postponed 24 hours to enable the Catawba players to compete in a pageant the Salisbury, N. C., school is holding Friday night.

Coach Jim Pixlee shuffled his football cards yesterday, and when he laid them on the table at the afternoon practice at Griffith Stadium the Colonials showed important line-up changes.

Two reasons explain the shifted line-ups, one being the fact that Frank Blackistone and Ras Nielsen, regular center and tackle, who are ineligible under Southern Conference rules, will be able to play Saturday against Catawba, and secondly, Coach Pixlee sought to give his regulars a rest to nurse their Alabama-dealt bruises.

Billy Parrish Again In Back Field.

Billy Parrish, who came to G. W. as an end, then was put in the back field at Camp Letts, and later switched to tackle, went back into the back field yesterday when he teamed with Johnny Baker, Chris Doose and Nig McCarver—an all-Texas quartet.

Ras Nielsen, one of the ablest linemen George Washington has had in several years, was placed at an end yesterday, and is likely to remain there for the rest of the year.

A two-hour scrimmage for those who did not compete in the Alabama game, was called yesterday. G. W. is not taking Catawba lightly by any means. The Salisbury, N. C., team is as big as the Colonials and won 28 to 0 over High Point in its only engagement this year.

Chris Doose, whose recovery of an Alabama fumble on the 14-yard line paved the way to G. W's touchdown against Alabama, is expected to break out in full regalia Saturday night. He will be given more chance to show his wares than in the three previous games of the season.

A. L. OFFICIAL RECOVERING.

Hilltop Team Perfecting Aerials

Mills Also Stresses Blocking, Tackling Fundamentals.

Hudson and Danner Return to Line-Up Against Violets.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

ON a field as hard as a banquet roll, Georgetown University's Football Team yesterday labored three hours in preparation for Saturday's game at the Yankee Stadium against New York University—a team the Hoyas would give Gibbons Hall to beat.

Coach Tom Mills, dynamic leader of the hard-bitten Georgetown players, sent his team back into the sarcophagus of fundamentals yesterday, resurrecting primary instructions in blocking, tackling and judicious use of the hands.

Two Georgetown regulars are on the "take-it-easy" list—Capt. Ray Hudson and Dick Danner, end and guard, both of whom bear the burden of the hurts amassed in the Canisius game. Both, however, will be in the N. Y. U. game.

G. U. Developing Reserve Players.

For more than an hour two teams scrimmaged yesterday to aid the perfection of Georgetown's reserve strength. The Hoya coaching staff realizes that much of the hope Saturday depends on the way in which the reserves come through, for it is certain that many of them will be used.

Part of yesterday's program was given over to polishing up on a defense against N. Y. U. passes and still another part to brushing up on Georgetown's own passing mechanics. Cognizant of the fact that the New York U. line is big, brawny and speedy, Georgetown probably will do much more passing in the game than they have done in their two previous games this season.

Hopes for a win Saturday still run high through the team, despite a somewhat discouraging low score over Canisius. Georgetown scored two victories over the Violets in 1928 and 1929, which were rousing upsets, and the squad believes it can be done again.

Hilltop Must Get Better Blocking.

It won't be if the caliber of the blocking does not show a marked improvement. Reports emanating from the Canisius game pronounced Joe Alenty as the only real blocker on the team.

On the offense yesterday Al Kelly and Charlie Parcells once more showed that they hold much of Georgetown's hopes in their speedy legs. On the defense Alan Cohen and Gildo Russo showed up well.

Ban Placed on Felts Appealed by Tulane

Atlanta, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Tulane University will appeal the disqualification of Full Back Nollie Felts before the Southern Conference executive committee some time this week and will seek a final ruling on his case before the Vanderbilt game at New Orleans Saturday.

Southeast Planning Community Athletics

Boys between the ages of 8 and 14 years desiring to join an athletic group sponsored by the Southeast Community Center are requested to register at the Hine Junior High School Gym Friday night at 7 o'clock. More than 100 boys were registered last year.

A new gym, comparable in size to that of Tech, has been erected and is available for the use of independent teams. A gym for girls also is available. Teams desiring to obtain a period should communicate with Mrs. M. W. Davis, at Lincoln 4917, or by addressing her at 900 Eleventh street southeast.

HAWKS BACK AT WORK.

A reduced squad of Mohawks began work last night for Sunday's game with the Penns Grove eleven. The Hawks failed to win either of the two games played to date, but they are hopeful of scratching the right side of the ledger against the invaders.

Protest by Tech Causes Eastern to Excuse Coach

THE delicate situation of an assistant Tech High coach appointed to the Eastern High coaching staff a week before the two teams were to meet in an important scholastic series football game was averted yesterday when Principal Charles Hart, of Eastern, delayed the start of the duties of Artie Wondrack, with the reservation that he would be sworn in as an accredited assistant coach as soon as the game is played.

A sharp protest from the office of Hap Hardel, coach of Tech, early yesterday, when Hardell learned that Eastern had delegated Wondrack to help train the Easterners for next Tuesday's game against Tech. Wondrack, a former Tech and Maryland University star, has been aiding Hardell with the Maroon and Gray Team during the past three years.

Wondrack was appointed a woodwork instructor at Eastern last Monday, and was immediately detailed by Principal Hart to aid Coach Chuck Guyon. He participated in Monday's workout, but refrained from taking an active part, contenting himself with familiarizing himself with Eastern's system of play.

But his presence in the Eastern coaching staff brought a protest from Hardell, who intimated that he had been advised to forfeit the game. Hardell, in an official statement, said that Wondrack would not be doing his duty by Eastern if he failed to reveal the methods of stopping the Tech plays with which he was well acquainted.

Principal Hart, in clarifying the matter, said that he was unaware that Wondrack had been helping Tech train since the start of the season. Mr. Hart added that immediately after being made aware of the circumstances he excused Wondrack from grid activities until after the game between the two schools.

RISQUE SETS OWN PACE TO WIN FILLY FEATURE AT LAUREL

Choices Fail In Every Race

Hanford Rides Three Winners; Final to Modern Times.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

SEVEN favorites were beaten, with Jockey Hanford piloting home three winners, at Laurel yesterday before a gallery of about 7,000. The Pocahontas Handicap was the feature, with the bright yellow of Mrs. John D. Hertz' stable flashing in front of a speedy field at the finish. The yellow shirt was on the back of Jockey E. Steffen, who was on the back of the 4-year-old daughter of Stimulus, Risque. As usual in a horse race, the horse did the most work. And what a job this Risque turned in.

The Hertz-owned filly hopped out in front at the rise of the barrier and from that point until the judges took their look at the finish it was a case of catch-me-if-you-can. Her Grace, the Ral Parr star, with Workman in the saddle, tried to do it for more than a mile, but the chief would-be catcher was Con Amore.

Con Amore Fails by A Neck.

This one, under the handling of Pat Remillard, worked her way up through the field as if to say, "Let me at that gal." And the old mare came with a rush. Remillard had her in top gear, but it was too late. The chart makers put it down as a neck decision. Her Grace, the fifth straight beaten choice, was third, a length behind, with Valenciennes, the other half of the Hertz entry, fourth.

Rock Point, a field horse, accounted for the opener, coming to the outside to beat Corrymeela by two lengths. Dunair, a long shot, was third. The favorite, True Sweep, was unprepared for the start and had only two horses beaten going up the backstretch and finished back in the field. As usual, the win tickets on the field were scarce and Rock Point rewarded with a $28 mutuel.

The Point Beats Contribute In Duel.

The Point and Contribute fought a pretty battle in the second, another 6-furlong sprint. With the exception of the first sixteenth, these two ran neck and neck for the trip, with Hanford, on The Point, keeping his mount up to withstand the challenge of the favored Contribute in the last sixteenth. Prometheus, third most of the way, was unable to get to the leaders, but took care of the show money. The Point's margin at the finish was a head. The winner paid $12.10.

The third went to Silk Flag, a son of Bunting and Silk Lady. The winner was eased up at the end to beat the favorite, Even Stephen. The latter was far out of the race going up the back stretch and had to battle his way through to the field to get the second money. Third place was accounted for by Considerate.

The fourth straight favorite bit the dust in the Homeland, for horses foaled in Maryland. The winner turned up in Boscobel capably ridden by Buddy Hanford. Monel, the public choice, was second and Dancing Mack third in the field of five.

Monel broke fast and led until the final sixteenth, when Hanford brought Boscobel up on the outside, shook her up, and then gave her a rousing finish ride to overtake the tiring Monel.

Miss Corrine earned a decision over Jolly Pilot in the sixth. Hanford gave the winner a brilliant ride. Third money went to All Rowes.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROCK POINT (field), $28.20, $9.10, $5.30; CORRYMEELA, $8.00, $6.00; DUNAIR, $9.90.

ROCKY POINT, a forward factor from the beginning and kept close to the leaders, came to the outside when reaching the home stretch, wore down CORRYMEELA and drew out under pressure in the final furlong. CORRYMEELA, vigorously handled to dispose of DUNAIR, was placed to punishment after drawing clear, but was unable to withstand the winner. DUNAIR forced a steady pace and continued with good courage. AELLA was forced to race on the outside for the entire trip. GAMBADO was held safe when the real issue came. TRUE SWEET broke slowly and was unable to reach contention. CRAPSHOOTER was outrun.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:17. Off at 2:17½. Winner, Mrs. R. Pollard's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE POINT, $12.10, $4.30, $3.60; CONTRIBUTE, $2.80, $2.60; PROMETHEUS, $6.20.

THE POINT, hard ridden to hold a forward position, secured racing room on the inside to take command midway of the turn, came out into the firmer footing during the stretch run and outstayed CONTRIBUTE. Latter raced HAGERSTOWN into defeat quickly, was under pressure and held on resolutely. PROMETHEUS, well placed early, saved a lot of ground entering the home stretch, but could not threaten the first two. IMA QUEEN swung wide into the home stretch and was held safe. SEA FOX went evenly. SANS COIN, away well, lacked early speed. BETTY FARRELL stopped.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILK FLAG, $11.60, $4.70, $3.20; EVEN STEPHEN, $3.50, $2.70; CONSIDERATE, $3.30.

SILK FLAG sprinted into a commanding lead when leaving the back stretch, drew out decisively when straightened into the home stretch and was under stout restraint at the finish. EVEN STEPHEN, taken up at the break, worked his way up on the inside and finished with good courage in the final drive. CONSIDERATE, early in and hard ridden, held on gamely. CORDOBA weakened steadily. POMPOSITY was hurried along for the first three furlongs, and tired thereafter. PRINCE ABBOT was never in contention. WESTACTON showed brief early speed. BROWN MOLASSES broke slowly and was not persevered with.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Homeland. For 3-year-olds and upward, foaled in Maryland. Start poor from gates. Won driving; place, ridden out. BOSCOBEL, headied within striking distance of the leaders, challenged stoutly, came to the outside for the final drive and, strongly handled, outstayed MONAL after gaining a brief lead. MONEL outran her field to the first turn, was raced in front while saving a commanding lead and came again inside for the final furlong. DANCING MACK, stroke his field and followed close up early. He weakened during the final drive. BLACK PATRICIA was unable to keep pace in the last three furlongs. MAJOR GENERAL stood flatfooted when breaking out of hand at the break and was never in contention.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200. The Pocahontas Handicap. For fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:59. RISQUE, taking command when entering the back stretch, was mildly reserved while resisting stout contention from HER GRACE, saved ground, drew clear when shaken up at the stretch turn and was under vigorous restraint to stall off CON AMORE, who, dropped back midway of the back stretch, was placed to punishment and finished fastest of all. HER GRACE forced a good pace, made repeated efforts and held on gamely. VALENCIENNES sulked when taken up on the inside and was taken around the leaders and came determinedly at the end. POLONAISE weakened after six furlongs. SWEET SCENT stumbled and almost fell when going into the back stretch. KINCSEN lacked speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:32. Off at 4:35. Winner, Mrs. R. P. MISS CORINNE followed JOLLY PILOT closely while racing smoothly, was sent into a brief lead when straightened into the home stretch and withstood a hard drive gamely. JOLLY PILOT, rated along early, continued stoutly when challenged. ALL ROWES worked her way up on the inside, crept through between horses in the stretch, then swerved back to the inside. MARCASITE could never threaten the leaders. WARD IN CHANCERY was outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:07. Off at 5:08½. Winner, Mrs. R. P. MODERN TIMES, going in her best form and having plenty of speed, opened up a long lead when ready and was in hand at the end. MARGARET MC, kept well up in this, finished with good energy. NEGOPOLI, sluggish in the first half mile, came around his field in the late stages and finished stoutly. WILLIAM T, hung after moving up strong entering the home stretch. MATADI saved a lot of ground the last five furlongs. PAULA L, faltered when the final test came.

Intercity Doubles Bowling Match at Temple Saturday

THE first intercity bowling match of the season is scheduled Saturday night at the Temple alleys. Reds Megaw and Ollie Pacini, Temple's crack doubles team, matches skill with Wesley Askew and Charley Barrow, of Baltimore, and if that doesn't pack 'em in, nothing will.

Megaw and Pacini have proven their potency in doubles competition time and again, while Askew and Barrow are two of Baltimore's ranking duckpinners, although it will be their first time together.

And just to assure the fans of an interesting evening, Matchmaker Megaw (it's Reds' first attraction of the season for Temple patrons) has arranged a match between Olli Pacini, ranking No. 1 bowler on the national list, and Ray Barnes, ranked No. 2. Barnes held the top position last year. The lanky Baltimorean is as well known to local fans as any of the home-town stars, and his ability to slide 'em over is uncanny.

Red Orme, of the Ionics, stole the show in The Post League at Lucky Strike yesterday afternoon, rolling 160 for high game and finishing with 390 for high set. Tony Suess, always up in the front row, was just a few paces back with 146 for his best game and a 375 total. Ross Clark was another in fine fettle. He spilled 143 pins in his second game and turned in a set of 346. Quads garnered the team laurels with a 544 game and 1,566 set.

Milner's 374 set and 147 game took the individual prizes in the King Pin Business Men's League. King Pin, No. 2, romped in ahead of the field with a total of 1,677 for high set, while Shoe Mart captured high game honors by virtue of a 607.

Jack Schott and Bill Deck were head men in the North of Washington loop at Silver Spring. Schott massaged the maples for a 367 set, while Deck was rolling 139 to make off with high game. Zirkle's Hardware turned in the best team set, a 1,633 score, and Rock Creek bowled 572 for the game laurels.

Pessenden stood at the head of the class in the Insurance League at Lucky Strike, all because he rolled 135 and 353. People's Life topped the teams with a game of 545 which was an invaluable part of its 1,566 set, also high.

Supervising Architects built some fancy scores at Lucky Strike, with Samuels and Brodie heading the individual scoring list. Samuels rocked the pins for high game, 132, and Brodie chopped enough wood for a 342 set. The Saxons pounded the pins for team honors, rolling 567 and 1,636.

Eastern Star Ladies League activities were dominated by Miss Hargett and the Ruth quintet last night. Miss Hargett rolled both high set and game, 322 and 123, and Ruth lambasted the lumber for a 490 game and 1,418 total for the three.

If something isn't done about it, the champion Cool Drinks team is going to make a runaway race of it in the Columbia Heights loop. Last night Mr. Cool's boys stepped out and rolled themselves a 616 game and 1,775 set to attach all team prizes around Arcadia. Dave Legum, who is just beginning to hit his stride, rolled 163 to collect the high game reward. Lean, lanky Paully Harrison cracked the headpin for a 382 set.

Jack Kauffman's 153 game was unequalled in the Lutheran Church League at Arcadia. Fillingy clicked off a 379 set. St. Mark's bagged team honors with 585 and 1,650.

Internal Revenue Ladies who deal with large sums in their daily chores, crayoned some fancy figures on the scoresheet at Columbia last night. Mary Pitts rolled 330 for high set, and Lena Baker copped the game honors with her 122. Stenographic outdistanced the teams with a 533 game and 1,440 set.

"Poet" Wadsworth undid the pinboys' work to the extent of some 335 pins in chalking up the best set recorded in the Postoffice loop at Columbia. Kinnahan scratched 124 on the sheet to collect for high game. Ebonies pasted the pins for 1,538, and Ruffets muscled in for the game award with 548.

Pauline Ford boosted her average with a 139 game and 363 set in the Washington Ladies League at Columbia. Her team fell in line with Pauline's spirit and chipped the bottles for a 544 game and 1,563 set, which, needless to state, was high for the evening.

Stocks Advance 3.6 Points On Eve of Holiday Closing

Wall Street Links Recovery With Shorts; Turnover, 1,747,390 Shares.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Financial markets were firmer today with stocks showing the best advantage.

Share trading was not particularly active, but the rally of 1 to 3 points or so net, even though it may have largely reflected short covering in preparation for tomorrow's holiday, was comforting to those who had been watching for support levels. Wheat closed moderately higher.

Gains were largest in those equities which had been most severely depressed by recent selling. The market opened strongly and although it met occasional setbacks, activity lessened during these periods and highest quotations were reserved for the last hour. Final levels were somewhat under the best. Volume totaled 1,747,390 shares.

Advance estimates placed steel production at a better ratio. U. S. Steel preferred rallied for more than 4 points. American Telephone strengthened substantially. The shares were up 3 net.

Rails were generally strong. Union Pacific snapped back more than 4 points, Santa Fe and Lackawanna 3 and Chesapeake and Ohio nearly as much, while New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania firmed liberally. Freight traffic reports for last week indicate that recovery was well maintained.

Oil shares came to life on news that price increases were spreading.

American Metal Market, commenting on Monday's U. S. Steel tonnage report, said a large increase could not have been reasonably expected, since orders in September were largely for immediate execution. "The corporation," it said, "shipped steel at about one-fifth higher rate in September than in August, and that is what counts. Steel conditions have not improved as much to this date as was being expected two months ago, but make a much better showing than seemed in prospect one month ago. Part of the increase is seasonal, while a large part appears to be of progressive character."

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	369	58
Declines	169	527
Unchanged	121	107
Total issues traded	659	692

Stocks.

A rally on the eve of the holiday sent prices up 3.6 points. Wall street linked short covering with the general rise. Stocks hit heaviest in the recent declines made the largest gains. The turnover was 1,747,390 shares.

Bonds.

Rail issues lifted bonds out of low ground and sent the market two-tenths of a point higher. Secondary loans were leaders in the advance. High-grade issues continued dull. Sales totaled $10,217,000.

Curb.

The market rallied, led by utilities. Gains of one to five points were recorded, as sales declined to 250,000 shares.

Wheat.

A heavy slump in early trading was changed to a rise of five-eighths to one cent per bushel in wheat, as soon as the news of securities' advance reached the board of trade. Unfavorable Argentine crop reports also added strength to the market. December wheat sold at 49¾ to 49½ cents.

Cotton.

General buying sent prices up 13 to 16 points. Some of the active months went higher. December sold at 6.89. Liverpool also reported buying.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for October 8 were $19,077,720.38; expenditures, $49,431,854.57; balance, $778,821,598.22. Customs duties for eight days of October were $6,680,170.87.

RAIL BONDS IN LEAD AS PRICES RECOVER

Two-Tenths of Point Added as Sales Increase to $10,217,000.

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The railroads put on a few extra pounds of steam today and reversed the downgrade movement of the bond market.

While the list was full of irregularities, there were sufficient plus signs at the close to enable the average for 60 corporate loans to hold a net gain of two-tenths of a point. It was the first average gain since September 24. There was also a moderate pick-up in volume, sales totaling $10,217,000, par value.

Secondary and convertible carrier liens were the principal gainers. Advances of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by some issues of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Denver & Rio Grande, Rock Island, Erie, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific & Southern.

High grade bonds were dull and either easier or unchanged. Losses were shown by Central Pacific first 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Long Island general 4s, New York Edison 6½s, North American 5s, Pacific Gas 5s, North American Edison 5s, Wilson Co. first 6s and American Telephone debenture 5½s.

Utility and industrial favorites that gained from 1 to as much as 4 points included American & Foreign Power 5s, Delaware Power 4½s, General Banking 5½s, International Match convertible 4½s, Shell Union Oil 5s, Utility Power & Light 5s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s. Weakness was exhibited by issues of Western Union, Remington Rand, U. S. Rubber and Wilson Co.

Obligations of Australia were up as much as 3½ points in heavy trading. German government loans also recovered from 1 to more than 2 points while issues of New South Wales, Sydney and Great Britain firmed.

The United States Government section was soft.

Policy Loans Decline As Employment Gains

An article on the Dow-Jones ticker states that loans on life policies by some of the large insurance companies during September declined to approximately 66 per cent of the peak reached in June and have continued at the same low rate so far in October. Executives of the large companies point out that in general as employment increases borrowing on life policies decreases and they are hopeful that the pick-up in employment which has taken place will continue. Some of the decline is also attributed to general improvement in the rural banking situation.

This decline last month and so far in October has given some of the large companies larger cash reserves than ever before in their history. Some companies have invested some of their funds in municipals and have been substantial purchasers of the new public utility issues floated in the past year. Others have confined their commitments to United States Government obligations or have left the cash in banks drawing one-half of 1 per cent interest. Large companies admit that they are practically being forced into the securities market.

While some companies feel that they would prefer to await election results, others are considering entering the market shortly if the rate of borrowing continues. Others have been in the market. Plans for investment have generally been prepared.

Orlando, Fla., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—H. A. Marks, statistician for the United States Department of Agriculture, estimated the Florida citrus crop for 1932-33 at 23,500,000 boxes, including commercial and private crops.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN AFTER EARLY SLUMP

Securities Rise and Reports From Argentine Helpful; Other Grains Up.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Stimulated by New York Stock Market upturns that preceded grain trading, cereals today developed strength after wheat had again outdone low-price records.

Rallies in wheat came after the market went momentarily to more than 6 cents a bushel under the recent higher point. Indications that Winnipeg prices were pegged, and that the rural marketing of spring wheat both north and south of the Canadian boundary was diminishing were effective as bullish factors.

Wheat closed firm at almost the day's top, ⅛ to 1 above yesterday's finish; corn, ⅝ to ⅞ up; oats, ⅛ to ¼ advance, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Crop Reports Aid.

Unfavorable crop reports from Argentina were a contributory influence toward higher wheat prices. Dispatches at hand said locusts were spreading in Santa Fe and Cordova Provinces, and that the visitation was the worst in years. There were also complaints of dry weather in the Northern zone, where no rain has fallen since October 5.

Evening-up of accounts so as to prepare for tomorrow's holiday assisted the upward trend. Hesitancy which the market here showed at the outset was associated with a decline in British exchange rates. On the other hand, evidence that the Winnipeg wheat market was receiving strong support did much to encourage buyers here, and it was noted that the spread between Chicago and Winnipeg prices had been shifted from 2½ cents premium October 4 to 1¾ discount today for Chicago December contracts.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

Foreign Demand Also Aids New Advance; Market Up 13 to 16 Points.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Trade and foreign buying along with short covering lifted cotton prices moderately today, the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 13 to 16 points.

The opening was 7 to 9 points higher on reported frosts in the Western belt. Liverpool cables were relatively steady.

Active months worked about 13 to 18 points above the previous finals but fell back on profit taking. Trade buying continued, however, and after selling off some 8 or 9 points from the best, prices turned firmer.

March sold up to 6.89, with the general list showing net advances of about 18 to 22 points, but closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing and Southern selling.

Trade Buying Scope.

Trade buying appeared to be for both domestic and foreign account, particularly the latter, and was accompanied by reports of a continued tight spot situation in the South.

The official weather details showed minimum temperatures of 32 degrees or lower, ranging down to 26, at 15 stations in Oklahoma, and light frosts were reported in northwest Texas.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimated consumption of all growths in this country for September at 467,000 bales against 403,000 in August and 464,000 last year.

Liverpool cables reported trade calling and local buying in that market and said that British home trade in cotton goods was improving with a fair business for India pending. Exports today, 55,200, making 1,460,902 so far this season. Port receipts, 70,434. Port stocks, 3,756,545.

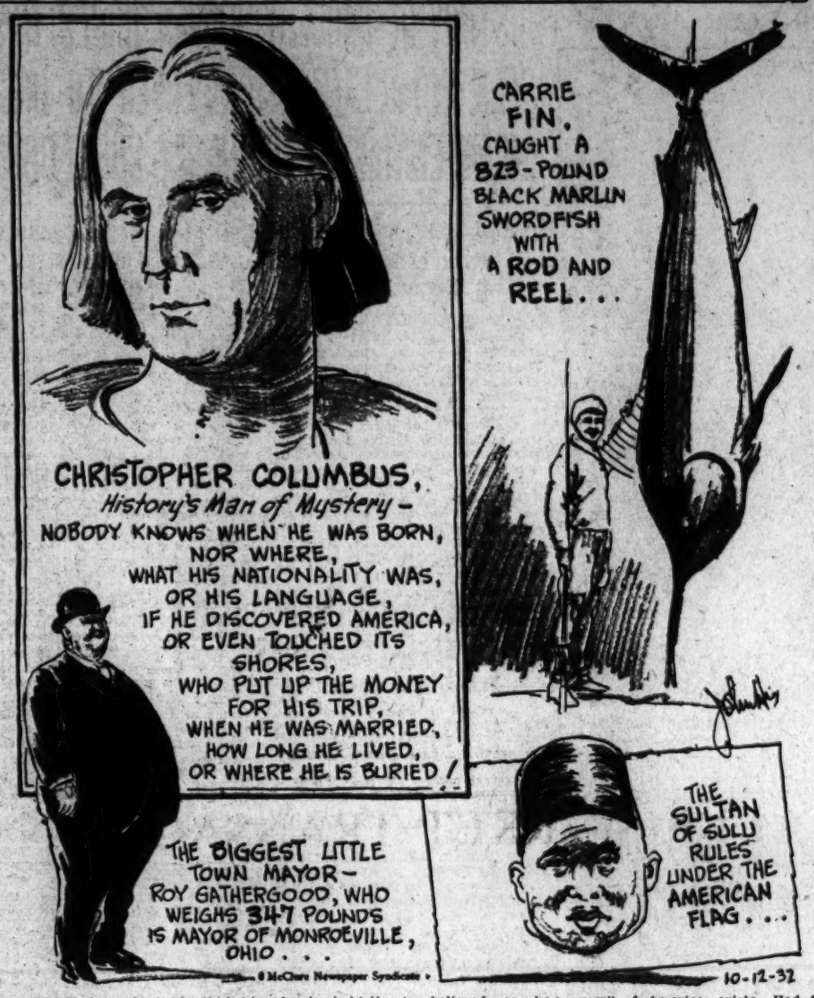
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



ABOUT the only thing that historians and scholars are in agreement upon concerning the life of Christopher Columbus is that he lived, and that with three ships he sailed west from Europe, arriving at an island which he called San Salvador, on October 12, 1492—just 440 years ago today. Many things of his life and death are open to argument.

Everybody knows that Columbus landed at San Salvador—but nobody knows where San Salvador is located. It is generally conceded that it was what is now known as Watling Island, but there is doubt. The date of Columbus' birth is believed to be "about 1446 to 1451." Where was he born? School books say Genoa, Italy. Yet he did not speak Italian. Did he learn Spanish at the University of Pavia? Did he attend school there at all? Nobody is sure. The birthplace of Columbus is so unsure that at least 23 towns claim the honor.

Concerning his marriage: he married Felipa Moniz Perestrello, to be sure, but when? Historians fail to agree.

Much doubt about his discovery of America, or the date of his "rediscovery" of America, exists. Had Columbus visited these shores before he laid his plans before Ferdinand and Isabella? One authority says yes, many shout no. The Portuguese crown is supposed to have furnished most of the money for the voyage, but where did Columbus get the rest? The controversy rages on.

The most important thing of his life, however, is the most sure. He led a little expedition westward across the Atlantic, pa

TRIBUTE TO PULASKI HONORS MEMORY OF POLISH HERO OF 1776

The memory of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, who came from Poland to fight for this country in the Revolutionary War and died from wounds received at the siege of Savannah 153 years ago, was honored yesterday by ceremonies at the Pulaski monument, at Mount Vernon and Arlington Cemetery, receptions at the White House and at the Polish Embassy and a cavalry review at Fort Myer.

Wreath Dropped on Potomac.

While delegates from Polish organizations and from the Sons of the American Revolution laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, a Navy plane dropped another wreath on the Potomac. Floating out to sea, this wreath will commemorate the fact that Gen. Pulaski was buried in the Atlantic by French naval officers after dying of wounds received while trying to prevent the retreat of French soldiers.

Troops from the Third Cavalry of the United States Army and the Headquarters Company acted as guard of honor at the Pulaski Monument, near Thirteenth and E streets. The American and Polish national anthems were played by the United States Army Band. Addresses were made by Wladyslaw Sokolowski, charge d'affaires of the Polish Embassy; Representative Sol Bloom, chairman of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, and Frank B. Steele, secretary general of the Sons of the American Revolution. The Rev. Stanislaus Czyz gave the invocation.

Ceremony Follows Mass.

Prior to the ceremony at the monument mass was said at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Father Czyz delivered the sermon in Polish. Mr. Sokolowski represented Tytus Filipowicz, Ambassador of Poland, at the day's ceremonies.

Wreaths were laid at Mount Vernon by delegates representing the following organizations: The Polish Roman Catholic Union, the Polish National Alliance of America, the Polish Women's Alliance of America and the Sons of the American Revolution.

The ceremonies were conducted under auspices of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the Pulaski National Memorial Committee.

HISTORY OF HARVEST SEEN IN PAGEANT AT BICENTENNIAL FETE

Transcending all previous bicentennial pageants for richness of color and beauty of movement, the Vision of George Washington, a pictorial history of the American harvest, was given its initial presentation in the Sylvan Theater last night by the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission. The pageant will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

Despite the snappy weather, which was acutely in harmony with the spirit of the performance, an attendance of 900 was registered and few of the spectators left before the glowing finale.

In dance, song and fantasy, the pageant depicts the gathering of the harvest in various parts of the United States from the time of the Pilgrim Fathers to the famous fruit harvests of the West of 1910.

New England Harvest.

The Indians depict the dawn of the harvest, dancing in the firelight against the background of wigwams. The early harvest in New England follows, showing the pilgrims and the birth of Thanksgiving.

Next is the harvest in the colonial South, symbolized by the gathering of tobacco and the hospitality of plantation residents. A harvest of the "gay nineties," as it was seen in the wheat harvest of the Great Northwest, is colorfully presented in the fourth episode. Merrymakers at an old-time husking bee lend gayety to this scene.

Scene of Golden West.

The climax is reached in the harvest market of the Golden West, in which Mexicans, Indians, monks, Spaniards and gypsies mingle in dance and song. The epilogue, given by Maurice Jarvis, who also offered the prologue, and the final vision of George Washington brings the presentation to a close.

The spirit of harvest time is told in music throughout the pageant by the United States Army Band. Outstanding contributions are given by the Estelle Wentworth Singers and the Evelyn Davis dance group. The pageant was written and arranged by Marie Moore Forrest and Elizabeth S. Lewis.

HOOVER URGES U. S. EMPLOYES TO BACK COMING CHEST DRIVE

Need for Relief in Capital Is Declared Greatest in Its History.

In a letter addressed to the heads of departments and independent bureaus, institutions and agencies of the United States Government, President Hoover strongly indorses the coming campaign of the Community Chest and requests the active aid and support of tthe Government workers in this campaign. This indorsement was made public yesterday by Thomas E. Campbell, president of the United States Civil Service Commission and chairman of the governmental unit of the Community Chest, at the opening meeting of his unit at Civil Service headquarters.

Text of President's Letter.

In his letter, President Hoover said: "I strongly request your active aid and support in the coming campaign of the Community Chest of Washington, D. C. The need which the people of the National Capital face is the greatest in the history of this city. The burden on the welfare and relief organizations which have united their efforts through the Community Chest is therefore the heaviest in their experience. This is true in spite of the fact that Congress at my request has appropriated the sum of $350,000 for relief of the unemployed through the Board of Public Welfare. This fund, it is quite clear, will not last through the winter.

"The need is greater than the amount which can be provided from public funds. These agencies bear the burden normally carried by private philanthropy plus the additional burdens created by unemployment. They must care for families broken by sickness, desertion, widowhood and disability, unemployable persons, orphans, the aged, hospital patients unable to pay for their care, and all other classes of need.

$350,000 Termed Inadequate.

"The Community Chest is the united effort of all races and creeds in common endeavor for the welfare of all. All who have jobs and a regard for the well-being of their fellow man should give to the full extent of their ability, their heart and their conscience, for the sake of their fellow citizens who can not adequately help themselves."

A $350,000 municipal relief fund, authorized by Congress, has fallen short in supplying necessary needs to destitute families, entitled to help under rules governing distribution of the fund, it was declared yesterday by Leroy Halbert at the opening of the first annual Community Chest Speakers Institute in the Willard Hotel.

Among other speakers who pointed out the terrific strain under which their organizations are laboring were Walter S. Ufford, general secretary of the Associated Charities; the Rev. Laurence J. Shehan, assistant director of the Catholic Charities; Arthur Rosichan, executive secretary of the United Hebrew Relief Society, and Adjutant Gilbert S. Decker, of the Salvation Army.

30 Fail to Identify Man Held as 'Sniper' Suspect

John Paul Green and Mrs. Anna Neibel McIntyre, Former Follies Beauty Arrested With Him, Likely to Be Set Free.

About 30 persons who glimpsed the dapper killer, who terrorized the Mount Pleasant section last spring during the various shootings and holdups credited to the "sniper," were unable to identify John Paul Greer, 26, of Benning, D. C., arrested on "undercover" information connecting him with the crimes.

At police lineup yesterday the victims stated that the arrested man bore no resemblance to their assailant. Mrs. Anna Neibel McIntyre, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, who was arrested with Greer, was practically absolved of any connection with the crimes and did not appear in the lineup.

The evidence against the suspect failed to hold up after detectives visited an alleged mystery house on the Marlboro pike, in search of clews. The house was found to be the residence of Greer's mother, and nothing to connect him with the "sniper's" activities could be found on the premises. Capt. B. W. Thompson, acting chief of detectives, said last night that there is now no evidence against the arrested pair and that they probably will be released in a short time.

Police are seeking the "sniper" for the murder of Paul Riedel, Mount Pleasant baker, and a number of shootings and holdups. Recent robbery victims also viewed the suspect.

U.S. WORKERS GIRD FOR FIGHT ON NEW CUTS BY CONGRESS

Steward Lists Seven-Point Welfare Program at Union Session.

The assault made on Government employes during preparation of the so-called economy laws in the last session of Congress may prove to be a mere skirmish compared with what may happen in the coming session, Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, warned a meeting of Local Union No. 105, held in Typographical Temple last night.

"If there are any Federal employes who think the tempest of denunciation and misrepresentation directed at them is over, now is the time to disabuse their minds of any such rosy dream," the leader of the Government workers said.

Major Part of Work.

Extension of the classification law and establishment of a qualified central administrative agency will continue to be the most important parts of the legislative program of the National Federation of Federal Employes, Mr. Steward said, but he outlined a seven-point program which would be of immediate and major importance in the coming three-months' session of Congress.

"The National Federation of Federal Employes," he said, "at the coming session will concentrate on the following: 1. Defeat all salary cut proposals. 2. Secure uniform annual and sick leave to replace unfair leave restrictions in economy act. 3. Support the Bingham resolution to repeal the married persons clause. 4. Restore authority to fill vacancies. 5. Repeal compulsory retirement provision contained in economy act, and secure in lieu optional retirement after 30 years of service. 6. Restore travel pay and allowance. 7. Revision downward of charges of quarters, sustenance and light."

Plans Are Speeded.

The local union is composed of women workers in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and reported rapidly maturing plans for the launching of a credit union among its members, as permitted under the law sponsored by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee. Application for authority to launch a credit union already has been approved. Miss Belle Trouland, president, said the union would add another benefit to those already enjoyed by members, among which are insurance, sick benefits, hospitalization, and dental, surgical and X-ray services.

Miss Anna Davison, chairman of the sick benefit committee, Miss Nora B. Jones, of organization committee, and Miss Mignon Miller, chairman of special rent committee which is cooperating with the Senate District committee made reports.

TREASURY TO PROBE FALL OF WORKMEN

Architect's Office Starts Inquiry of Three Hurt on Postoffice Job.

The fall of three men from steel beams of the new Postoffice Building yesterday will be investigated by the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department, it was stated by James A. Wetmore, acting supervisor.

Although all of the men were admitted to hospital for treatment, their conditions are thought not to be serious, unless internal complications arise. Two of the men were precipitated from the catwalk on which they were working when a rivet holding the support gave way. They fell from the sixth to the fourth floor, and were taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment. George York, 32, of 913 I street northwest, and Elon R. Vancief, 38, of 224 Maryland avenue northeast, both steel workers, were the injured.

The third man fell from the second story of the construction to the ground shortly after the first accident. He was thought to have been thrown off balance by the strong wind. He gave his name as George Bonner, 46, of 1236 I street northwest, and was admitted to Providence Hospital for treatment of bruises to limbs and body and possible internal injuries.

Reports of the accidents will be submitted to investigators by the foreman of construction and witnesses.

JUNIOR HIGH CUPOLA HEARING IS ORDERED

Controversy Over Dropping Item for Economy to Be Studied Tuesday.

The District Commissioners yesterday agreed to hold a public hearing on the controversy that has arisen over whether a cupola should be constructed on the proposed Taft Junior High School. It will be conducted next Tuesday afternoon.

Upon receiving a request for a hearing from the Burroughs Citizens Association, the Commissioners ordered the hearing despite the previous decision of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, that the cupola must be eliminated from the school plans for economy reasons.

A special committee which has made "a study of the architectural status" of the school will present its views at the hearing in behalf of the Burroughs Association, according to a letter to the District heads. It is expected that the Brookland and the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Associations, which have also protested against the cupola's removal, will also be represented at the hearing.

The Fine Arts Commission has previously written a letter to the Commissioners objecting to Maj. Gotwals' decision from an architectural point of view. The Engineer Commissioner contends, however, that the design of the school will not be marred, and that the District government will be saved about $4,000 by eliminating the cupola.

ZONE CHANGES WON AT BUZZARDS POINT

Private Garages Are Allowed by Commission; Other Petitions Granted.

The District Zoning Commission yesterday approved seven petitions for rezoning of property, rejected seven others, deferred action on two requests, adopted one amendment to the zoning code and postponed action on another. Among the principal zoning changes was the classification as industrial or second commercial of a large area at Buzzards Point. Certain changes were made in the original proposal, however, to protect the residential development of the Washington Sanitary Housing Corporation and the view from the War College.

The amendment adopted eases the restrictions as to the construction of private garages at the rear of residential lots. The amendment postponed has to do with commercial parking lots. Under the first change private garages not exceeding 800 square feet in area may be erected on lots which did not meet the former requirements so long as the structures are not closer than 10 feet to the rear of the residence.

HOOVER HEADS LIST IN Y. M. C. A. DRIVE

The first membership card in the Y. M. C. A. founder's anniversary campaign for 600 new members has been issued to President Hoover, it was announced last night at an opening rally at the Central Y. M. C. A.

The President, after giving to the Y. M. C. A. an anniversary message that was flashed around the world last night by short-wave radio, renewed his affiliation with the Washington association, of which he has been a member since his days in the Cabinet.

Upon entering the White House Mr. Hoover signed a new application for membership, which was framed and hung beside the original applications of President Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding. President Coolidge never joined the local association, preferring to retain membership in the Northampton, Mass., Y. M. C. A.

President Hoover's written greeting, eulogizing Sir George Williams, Y. M. C. A. founder, and characterizing the association as "a tower of moral strength," was relayed to all parts of the globe by a chain of amateur operators, including members of the Washington Radio Club and of the American Radio Relay League.

The first broadcast early in the evening coincided with the launching here and in many other cities of a membership expansion movement in honor of the Y. M. C. A. founder. In addition to commemorating the 111th birthday anniversary of the international founder, the Y. M. C. A. campaigners honored three founders of the Washington "Y"—William J. Rhees, William Chauncey Langdon and Thomas Duncan.

John L. Vandegrift, chairman of the drive, and Randolph E. Myers, secretary, outlined campaign plans. Dr. A. C. Christie, president of the Y. M. C. A., and Leonard W. DeGast, general secretary, gave messages of encouragement to the teams. First returns will be received at a dinner meeting of campaigners tomorrow night at the "Y."

Trade Body Hears, Fort Talk Tonight

Head of New Home Bank System to Explain Its Workings.

Workings of the recently created Home Loan Bank system, will be explained by its chairman, Franklin W. Fort, to the Washington Board of Trade at its first fall meeting tonight at the Willard Hotel.

An important part of the work of the Home Loan Bank system which Mr. Fort is expected to explain is the establishment of a nation-wide chain of regional mortgage banks.

President Hoover has explained the purpose of the Home Loan Bank system as "both to meet the present emergency and to build up home ownership on more favorable terms than exist today."

In addition to hearing Mr. Fort, the members of the Board of Trade will be entertained by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Glee Club.

Gem Theft Arrests Follow 3-Day Vigil of Policeman

The three-day vigil of Traffic Bureau Policeman J. L. Rinker, stationed at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was rewarded yesterday when he stopped a small sedan bearing New Jersey license plates, and found the occupants in possession of about $1,000 worth of allegedly stolen jewelry.

A man and woman riding in the car were said by police to be the pair named in a recent lookout as wanted in New Jersey for the theft of several thousand dollars' worth of gems. They, however, denied any connection with the theft.

Detective Sergt. Charles Warfield, of the clothing squad, first noticed the small car last week in nearby Virginia and, communicating with New Jersey police, was informed of the robbery. He issued the lookout on which Rinker made the arrest. The pair gave their names as Jay La Rue, 30, and Cynthia La Rue, 28, both of Summit Point, N. J., and were held for further investigation.

Police last night visited a house at 1742 Wisconsin avenue northwest, where the arrested pair were said to have been living, and recovered an additional quantity of gems. The recovered property included a number of valuable rings and watches.
